Jain Dharma/Religion, originated in India several thousand years ago, teaches a lifestyle rooted in the practice of unconditional nonviolence. Jainism is the sixth (6th) largest religion in the world. Students and scholars will learn about Jain traditions from learned lay scholars as well as practicing monks and nuns in India.

The Program is designed for undergraduate and graduate students, Post-Doctoral Fellows, full time faculty and High School Teachers with an interest in the Jain Studies and ahimsa (nonviolence). The three, four and six week long, stand alone and separate intensive courses in International Summer School for Jain Studies (ISSJS) 2016 will entail morning lectures, afternoon field trips, visits to some schools, time in a few ancient cities and meetings with Jain professionals, monks and nuns.

For the last 11 years, every summer, ISSJS have been offered regularly in India. The number of participants has seen a steady increase every year. Nearly 69 scholars participated in ISSJS-2015 programs and more than 600 students and scholars from many universities and High Schools have participated in ISSJS programs so far. It is subsidized financially and in some cases offers attractive financial assistance also.
