

Samantha Pinkal

Samantha is a Project Manager for City of Surprise Economic Development focused on strategic business attraction. In her role, she analyzes trends and economic markets, develops strong working relationships with key industry leaders, negotiates complex agreements, and conducts sales presentations and prospect tours. Sam brings extensive industry expertise with her, including over 10 years of client service experience and a successful record of commercial construction project delivery. She holds a B.S. in Engineering Technology – Construction Management from Pittsburg State University.