

Call for Papers

The University of the District of Columbia Law Review (UDC Law Review) invites contributions to Volume 22.

About our law school: The University of the District of Columbia David A. Clarke School of Law (UDC Law) is the only public law school in the nation's capital. UDC Law is committed to the public interest, using the law to help those in need and reshape our community. Its student body is one of the most diverse in the United States, with significant representation of women, minorities, and older students. The law school is also ranked by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top ten law schools in the nation for clinical training.

About this journal: The UDC Law Review is a student-run periodical that publishes articles of topical legal interest. Our aspiration is to serve the community by raising awareness of important legal issues of social concern. UDC Law Review attempts to embody the theme of community activism and service that resonates in the law school's clinical programs. Our motto is, Activism Meets Scholarship.

Topics for this volume: UDC Law Review invites manuscripts that advance legal scholarship on issues of social justice, current and/or persistent human and civil rights issues, and public interest law in general. We welcome manuscripts related to UDC Law clinical programs:

- Tax Law
- Legislation
- Criminal Law
- General Practice
- Whistleblower Law
- Community Development
- Housing & Consumer Law
- Immigration & Human Rights
- Juvenile & Special Education Law

UDC Law Review also invites manuscripts discussing broader issues within public interest law such as: perspectives on practicing public interest law; effective means for achieving results in public interest law; legislative or doctrinal innovations that could strengthen public interest law; or intersection of public interest law with: civil rights, civil liberties, community economic development, education, race, women's rights, constitutional law, and/or administrative law.

To be considered for inclusion in Volume 22 of the UDC Law Review, please submit your finalized manuscript/article to lawreview@udc.edu, with "Attn: Managing Editor – Manuscript Submission" in the subject line. Authors must send their manuscripts by September 1, 2018. If you have any questions, please contact our Managing Editor, Maria Suarez (maria.suarez@udc.edu).

Activism Meets Scholarship