

Robert Hanson Bio

Robert (Bob) Hanson is a Vice President leading WGI's Geospatial Division. Bob possess a background in national intelligence analysis and products, senior leadership roles for the delivery of very large federal geospatial programs for the missions of DoD, USACE, DOI – Census Bureau and NITA, FEMA, FCC, NOAA, PHSMA, and numerous state and municipal departments and agencies. Private clients included major telecommunications and broadband providers. He is currently on the Board of Directors and is the President Elect for MAPPS (Management Association of Private Photogrammetric Surveyors). Hanson has led significant engineering and infrastructure-related geospatial programs throughout his 38 year career. He has significant international experience working in Egypt, Panama and Russia on USAID, USACE and DoE sponsored programs. Bob has a Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of South Florida and a GISP Certified Professional. He leads WGI's Geospatial Division that offers professional technical services and products using a very diverse set of advanced technologies. The Division is comprised of specialists performing field collection and processing of survey or other remotely sensed data for infrastructure, landforms and land ownership; subsurface utility engineering, and the Division employs advanced sensors. The Division specializes in Unmanned Aircraft Systems, Autonomous Hydrographic Vessels and Light Detection and Ranging (LiDAR) for spatial data collection and data analytics.