

ROSENBLUM FELLOWSHIP FOR ADVOCACY TRAINING

The Massachusetts Psychological Association is inviting applications for the 2019-2020 Eleanor Rosenblum Fellowship in psychology and public policy. The Rosenblum Fellowship provides a unique opportunity to learn the processes by which public, social, and mental health policy are created. The program offers active participation in MPA advocacy on several levels both within and beyond the organization itself. By studying the interface between psychological knowledge and social issues, and by having direct experience with legislative, political and policy-making procedures, the Rosenblum Fellow will be in a position to take an active role in the future leadership of the profession of Psychology.

Scope of Fellowship

The Rosenblum Fellowship will enable the candidate to observe and participate in the Association's governance process. To this end, the Fellow will attend Advocacy Committee meetings, join the Public Issue Review Committee (PIRC), and observe and participate in legislative hearings and lobbying activities. The Fellow will be invited to attend additional relevant committee meetings as time allows, determined by MPA. A primary responsibility of the Fellow will be to take an active role on the Association's PIRC by preparing statements on those public/social issues the committee approves to move forward with on behalf of the Association. The Fellow will also submit a year-end report describing his/her activities for the Association's newsletter.

Terms of the Fellowship

The Fellowship will begin October 2019 and end May 2020 with a 5 hour per week commitment to the Fellowship. The Association will provide a stipend of $1,500.

Requirements for Candidacy

MPA encourages applications from candidates in marginalized and/or underrepresented groups. The application must:

- Be a doctoral or post-doctoral student in psychology
- Have a clear commitment to pursuing a professional career in psychology
- Demonstrate a serious interest in public policy

The application should submit:

- Curriculum vita
- Two letters of recommendation from faculty instructors or psychologists attesting to the applicant's professional development, ethics and interest in the area of public policy
- Two-page, double-space statement of background experience and interest in the position

Application materials must be submitted to MPA by September 15, 2019 and should be directed to The Rosenblum Fellowship Committee, Massachusetts Psychological Association, 195 Worcester Street, Suite 303, Wellesley, MA 02481.
