Timothy Bourgeois - Executive Director

Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement Standards

2017 saw the passage of PA 128 which imposes mandatory tasks upon your agency when hiring an officer or when an officer leaves your agency. Tim will discuss this legislation and its implications upon your department. In addition, he will cover:

- The critical importance of background investigations
- The on-going Job Task Analysis and what that means for you
- Pending legislation that affects MCOLES and your agency
- The new proposed firearms standard for basic academies, currently in pilot testing

These topics are of vital importance to our profession and failure to comply could leave both you and your department open to civil liability. Can you afford to miss this session?

Heads It's Legal, Tails It's Not!

Presenters:

John Lessnau – Manager, Criminal Investigations Section; Michigan Gaming Control Board

*Richmond Riggs & Kim Mitseff – Assistant Attorneys General, Treasury and Gaming Section
Criminal Division - Michigan Department of Attorney General*

The presentation will revolve around a question regularly asked by police agencies and municipalities across the state on whether a certain type of business is legal. The businesses present themselves as an adult or skill arcade and attempt to legitimize themselves by stating they offer games, just like Chuck E. Cheese, which are compliant with state law and are approved by the Michigan Gaming Control Board. The fact is, to date, we have not found one location operating within the parameters of state law. These illegal gambling locations have been located in all areas of our state. You may think they aren't in your town. Wanna bet?

A Day with Gordon Graham and the Seven Rules of Admiral Hyman Rickover

Presenter:

Gordon Graham

One of the great icons of the 20th Century was Admiral Hyman Rickover. He is known as the “father” of our nuclear navy and his efforts have made America safer. Admiral Rickover directed the development of our nuclear navy, which has a tremendous safety record. He recognized he was dealing with a highly risky, highly complex issue, and he developed rules for success.

How can these rules help you in your highly complex, highly risky world of policing? How did his focus on quality control penetrate the organization so deeply so as to reach to the line employee level in the nuclear navy?

Gordon has developed a custom presentation exclusively for the MACP and will explore each of these rules and explore the possibilities. This is a don't miss, rare opportunity, to spend a day with a risk management legend!
