FY20 Budget Proposes to Eliminate IMLS; Advocates Called On to Step Up

by Lisa Peet
Mar 13, 2019 | Filed in News

The White House released President Trump’s preliminary FY20 budget proposal on Monday, March 11. As with the administration’s proposed FY18 and FY19 budgets, it calls for major cuts to domestic federal spending, and proposes the elimination of a number of non-military agencies, including the Institute of Museum and Library Services (IMLS). These cuts are unlikely to be enacted by Congress—they weren’t in the past two years, and will likely face...

ARLD Day 2019

92 academic librarians gathered on April 26th for ARLD Day.

Keynote speaker Matthew Reidsma presented Ethical UX.

MLA members can access the recording via the MLA website.
Since 2016 the Mapping Prejudice project, based in the Borchert Map Library at the University of Minnesota, has worked to create the first-ever comprehensive visualization of racial covenants for an American city.

Starting with digitized Hennepin County property deeds, the project employs optical character recognition to identify specific phrases and terms used to racially restrict specific groups from owning, leasing, or renting the referenced property. The project then turns to humans to examine the tagged documents and answer a series of questions aimed at identifying the geographic location and specific language use in the covenant.
