WorldCat Discovery Services are now available

31 March 2014

OCLC is pleased to announce that WorldCat Discovery Services are now available, making it possible for library staff and users currently using FirstSearch to move to a richer discovery experience. WorldCat Discovery has been developed and refined based on input and feedback from a 30-member Advisory Group and more than 650 FirstSearch beta test libraries around the world.

WorldCat Discovery Services are the new suite of cloud-based applications that brings the FirstSearch and WorldCat Local services together. The suite enables staff and users to discover more than 1.5 billion electronic, digital and physical resources in libraries around the world through a single search of both WorldCat and a central index that represents nearly 2,000 e-content collections. The new interface is optimized for use across desktops, tablets and mobile devices.

Included for all FirstSearch subscribers

Current FirstSearch subscribers receive access to WorldCat Discovery Services as a part of their existing subscriptions. New libraries can also subscribe to WorldCat Discovery Services. FirstSearch and WorldCat Discovery will operate in parallel during an extended transition period, allowing libraries to choose their transition timing. WorldCat Discovery is available initially to libraries in the United States, Canada, Latin America, Australia and New Zealand. It will be made available to libraries in Asia and Europe, Middle East and Africa in the coming weeks. Access to the current FirstSearch service will end on 31 December 2015.

Showcase your collection and put information in the hands of your users

CONTENT—Provide materials from the world’s leading libraries and publishers

ACCESS—Make your library available, 24/7 through multiple devices

VISIBILITY—Be where your users are

The Future of FirstSearch

WorldCat® Discovery Services is the new way to search WorldCat®. It will eventually replace the FirstSearch® and WorldCat® Local services. WorldCat Discovery Services provides access to 1.9 billion electronic, digital and physical resources in libraries around the world through a single search of WorldCat and a central index that represents more than 2,200 e-content collections. It makes library collections visible where people start their research.

The WorldCat Discovery interface is available to all current FirstSearch, WorldCat Local and WorldShare Management Services subscribers as part of existing and renewed subscriptions. Libraries are encouraged to start their transition to WorldCat Discovery now, before access to the FirstSearch interface ends on December 31, 2015.

An important message about WorldCat Discovery Services

Based on member feedback, OCLC will extend unlimited access to FirstSearch beyond the previously announced date of December 31, 2015 to a to-be-determined date in late 2016. Access to per-search searching on FirstSearch will end on December 31, 2015.

I want to take this opportunity to introduce myself. I am Mike Showalter, and I recently joined OCLC as the Executive Director of End-User Services at OCLC, where I have product management responsibility for all reference and discovery products, including FirstSearch and WorldCat Discovery.

An important part of my first 30 days on the job was to lead a review of the transition from the OCLC FirstSearch Service to WorldCat Discovery. The team has completed that review, which included critical feedback from many of you about FirstSearch, WorldCat Discovery functionality and the transition plan that was put in place last year. Based on that feedback, OCLC has decided to extend unlimited access to FirstSearch beyond the announced date of December 31, 2015 to a to-be-determined date in late 2016. Per-search access to FirstSearch will end on December 31, 2015 as previously communicated.

When will a new date be announced?

Central to this decision was our desire to add the important features that you identified and give you time to review our solutions in a timeframe that allows you to complete your transition on a schedule appropriate for your library. You will hear a new date once we are satisfied that we have met those goals.

What’s next?

OCLC’s goal is to provide a service that truly meets the needs of your library staff and users. You can continue to send us your suggestions for WorldCat Discovery, as we add features to WorldCat Discovery on a regular basis. The next release of new features to WorldCat Discovery is scheduled for today, July 23.

Information about changes to the service will be distributed through the WORLDCAT-DISCOVERY-L listserv, the OCLC-FIRSTSEARCH-L listserv and the WorldCat Discovery website. The OCLC Community Center is also a wonderful new place where you can share your ideas and vote on WorldCat Discovery enhancement requests to make your voice heard.

I look forward to being part of the OCLC team that helps users connect with your library’s resources as well as the resources in thousands of other libraries around the world.

Mike Showalter joins OCLC in late June 2015 as Executive Director of End-User Services.
Sample E-mail Order Request for Requested Jandek CDs via WorldCat Firstsearch

Please order the following two CDs on C1107. Notify / hold for xxxx Music Dept. (x@princeton.edu). They are both difficult to get, so we have to go with some odd providers (who have reasonable prices).

Thanks,

Darwin
