Greetings to members of the MLA Midwest Chapter! DEADLINE: SEPTEMBER 9, 1986!

That's right! September 9 is the final day room reservations can be accepted at the Orrington Hotel in Evanston for the forthcoming annual meeting of the Chapter, October 9-12. This is a very special event, entitled "Conference on Music Bibliography" and combines the activities of the Midwest Chapter with the forces of the AMS Midwest Chapter, and is hosted by the School of Music and the University Library of Northwestern University. This issue of the Newsletter contains your preliminary program and all pre-registration materials. I know you'll agree that the extraordinary scope and focus of this conference combined with the roster of distinguished participants promise the most ambitious Chapter event in recent memory. I urge you all to make plans immediately to attend.

Elsewhere herein you will find a brief summary of last year's excellent meeting in Madison. Many thanks are extended to Barbara Strauss and Arne Arneson (University of Wisconsin--Madison), Katie Holum (University of Minnesota) and every individual who worked to make this meeting an important and memorable one. I also bring to your attention the ballot for the election of Midwest Chapter Chair-Elect (or, to use the official title, "Vice-Chairperson/Chairperson-Elect/Past-Chairperson"). Our two stellar candidates were duly recruited by the Nominations Committee, comprised of David Fenske, Chair (Indiana University); Susan Lundell Sloan (University of Cincinnati), and Donald Bemis Jones (College of St. Catherine).

See you at Evanston!

THE MEETING AT MADISON

The annual meeting of the Midwest Chapter for 1985 was held in Madison, Wisconsin, on October 24-26. The conference began with open committee meetings on the morning of Thursday, October 24. Session I, devoted to American popular music, included two presentations: "Amplifying Access to Popular Sound Recordings" by Linda Fidler (Bowling Green State University) and "American Life in Our Piano Benches" by Jean Bonin (Guest Curator, Elvehjem Museum of Art, University of Wisconsin--Madison).

Ms. Fidler described the Sound Recordings Archive at BGSU, which consists of over 250,000 recordings of popular music, and was begun in 1967. The Archive also includes over 10,000 pieces of popular sheet music, complete runs of popular music periodicals, extensive discography, and has achieved a position of national prominence in terms of the comprehensive nature of the collection and the outreach through response to reference questions and assistance in a variety of projects. Ms. Fidler presented to the audience problems particular to bibliographic description and access of popular sound recordings and a solution, in terms of BGSU's recent grant funding which makes possible an accelerated program of cataloging, including additional professional-level and support staff, improved quality of access, and a greatly increased quantity of cataloging production. In "American Life in Our
Ms. Bonin provided the Chapter with a curator's own first-hand overview of the Elvehjem exhibit consisting of American popular sheet music—drawn, in fact, from Wisconsin collections—from about 1840 to 1930, as a kind of reflection of American life. The stunning display served to illuminate the art of the sheet music cover, from the earliest simple ornamentation of the title through the later highly elaborate and imaginative front and back covers of illustrations, featuring portraits and vignettes. In Session II, Carolyn Rabson (Oberlin College) and Eric Western (University of Wisconsin—Milwaukee) provided an open forum on the topic, "A Standard for Machine-Readable Music Notation?" an issue which Ms. Rabson, with Western and others, is exploring on the national level of MLA. The session provided an overview of both "manual" and computer-based approaches to traditional musico-graphics of displaying and indexing music incipits, through the various systems, and examined current questions such as whether and by what means the MARC format can be used for coding and retrieval, what kinds of standards need to be considered, and which parts of the piece should be indexed for retrieval. Following Session II, a reception in the modern and impressive UW Mills Music Library concluded the day's official activities.

Session III, on Friday, October 25, was entitled "Music Information and Commercial Data Bases: A Status Report" and was led by Gail Sonnemann (George Mason University) and Jeanine Thubauville (University of Wisconsin—Madison) and provided up-to-date information on the music resources within BRS, DIALOG, and WILSONLINE. The session explored such issues as the need for quality control in online searches and the responsibilities of the librarian-as-searcher; the need for familiarity with the command languages of the various vendors; the coverage of the various data bases; and the costs for searching. Sonnemann and Thubauville provided illustrations of the strengths and weaknesses of the various data bases for music coverage and stressed the need for current awareness: taking advantage of vendors' training sessions, joining associations such as SLA or ASIS, staying abreast of new developments through newsletters, Reference Quarterly, etc.

During the Chapter Luncheon and business meeting which followed, John Druesedow (Oberlin College) concluded his term as chairperson and welcomed Katie Holum as chairperson for 1985-87. It was announced that Kiyo Suyematsu was elected to the office of Secretary-Treasurer, replacing Susan Sloan.

Session IV, a joint meeting with the Wisconsin Music Educators Conference, was introduced by Nick White (Nicolet High School, Glendale) and included lively papers by Arne Arneson ("The Wisconsin Model: An Agenda for Statewide Service"), Gail Sonnemann ("Life Beyond ERIC: The Exploration of Information Sources"), and University of Illinois Professor Richard Colwell ("Succoring the Teacher"). Mr. Arneson conducted a follow-up discussion on the presentations.

Session V, the closing portion of the meeting, held on Saturday morning, October 25, concerned "High-Tech Music Publishing and A-R Editions, Inc." and was presented by Lila Aamodt and Jim Iliff, both of A-R Editions. Following introductions and a brief presentation on the history of A-R, the conference was concluded with a tour of the site and the production facilities in downtown Madison.
COMMITTEE REPORTS

The following reports were presented at the 1985 annual meeting or shortly thereafter.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC INSTRUCTION COMMITTEE

Richard Jones reported that the Committee has been working to determine future goals and objectives, now that its most recent charge has been fulfilled. The Committee will now be expanded to include all public services in addition to bibliographic instruction concerns, with the new title of Public Services Committee. A session on the marketing of music bibliographic services within libraries is planned for 1986.

CATALOGING COMMITTEE

Ralph Papakhian discussed the program for next year's meeting. The current plan is to have those currently involved with online systems give presentations on how their systems are able to handle problems with music. Richard Griscom will survey selected individuals and institutions to determine which systems are being used, the status of development and implementation of those systems in the respective institutions, and the names of appropriate contacts.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE

Karen Nagy spoke about the Chapter meeting for 1986 to be held in Evanston, Illinois. The conference will be focused on the topic of music bibliography and will be held concurrently with the fall meeting of the AMS Midwest Chapter. Proposed topics will include enumerative and descriptive bibliography of primary sources, enumerative bibliography of secondary sources, bibliographic instruction, lacunae and existing sources, and standards for bibliographic reference sources.

SMALL ACADEMIC MUSIC LIBRARIES WORKING GROUP

Robert Delvin reported that eight Chapter libraries were represented at the open meeting of the group, meeting for its third year. Discussion about the makeup of the group vis-à-vis representation within the Chapter resulted in general agreement that the size of the collection and numbers of professional staff were controlling factors, and that there may be more similarities between small libraries and medium-sized ones (1 to 2 professional librarians and up to 50,000 volumes) than between the latter and large research music collections. The group would like to invite interested librarians from medium-sized music collections as well to participate in future meetings. Two suggestions of possible group activities: 1) an institutional profile questionnaire to be used in identifying libraries in the small and medium-sized categories, individual collection strengths and personnel, and 2) a statistical survey of original cataloging production and practices within small libraries.
