Meeting the Challenge: Child and Family Advocacy in a Changing World

The 37th National Child Welfare, Juvenile, and Family Law Conference

Denver, CO • August 18-20, 2014
Pre-Conference August 17, 2014

The top leaders in child welfare, juvenile justice and family law are coming to Denver. Join the national community of child and family advocates who work together to make this country a better place for kids and parents.

From shopping and dining on 16th Street Mall, the Denver Art Museum, attending a Rockies baseball game, to seeing the famous Red Rocks Amphitheatre, there is no shortage of things to do in and around Denver. In August, Denver is filled with beautiful, sunny days and cool, comfortable evenings.

Legal advocacy for children, youth, and families is a very specialized area of the law. Allow the experts to give you tools to make you a better, more effective attorney, and make this country a better place for children, youth, and families — join us in Denver!

The Conference

More than 37 years of experience have gone into developing this premiere three-day training, during which we will give you the most current information and advanced tools to advocate for your clients.

The conference is comprised of Plenary Sessions and Breakout Sessions. For complete details, see the Conference section on our website at www.NACCchildlaw.org.

Workshop topics range from emerging issues in kinship care law, to practical trial skills, to ensuring youth are meaningfully engaged in court.

Due to the multidisciplinary nature of this work, we are bringing in professionals from the fields of medicine, mental health, social work, law enforcement, and education, to attend our conference and serve as faculty.

We know you have dedicated at least some of your practice to the representation of children and youth, parents, or the state in juvenile dependency, delinquency, or family law cases. This conference is the opportunity to come together with your fellow advocates to network and receive the most progressive resources available.

The NACC

Founded in 1977, the National Association of Counsel for Children is a 501(c)(3) non-profit child advocacy and professional membership organization dedicated to enhancing the well-being of America's children and families. In today’s world millions of children are the subjects of judicial proceedings each year. They are involved in the court system as victims of abuse and neglect, juvenile offenders, subjects of custody, visitation and adoption proceedings, and participants in civil damages litigation.

The NACC works to improve the lives of children and families by ensuring that these proceedings produce justice. Specifically, our mission is to:

- Ensure that children and families are provided with well resourced, high-quality legal advocates when their rights are at stake
- Implement best practices by providing certification, training, education, and technical assistance to promote specialized high-quality legal advocacy
- Advance systemic improvement in child-serving agencies, institutions, and court systems
- Promote a safe and nurturing childhood through legal and policy advocacy for the rights and interests of children and families

   Dr. Susan McCracken, The University of Chicago: School of Social Service Administration

   Development of the fifth edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (released in May, 2013) has not been without controversy, even after release. It contains some major changes in diagnostic criteria. Even more important, the new edition includes the most significant conceptual changes in the approach to the classification and diagnosis of mental disorders since release of the third edition in 1980. This workshop will review how these changes will impact child welfare, juvenile justice and family law.

   SPACE IS LIMITED; REGISTRATION REQUIRED TO ATTEND; $50 FEE.

12:15–1:45p
Annual Luncheon : Therapy Animals Helping Maltreated Children: Strategies for Successful Implementation in Child Advocacy Centers, Prosecutor’s Offices and the Courtroom
Allie Phillips, JD

When a child has been maltreated, self-disclosing with an adult about the experience can be difficult and testifying in court can be traumatic. When trained therapy animals are incorporated into the process, children feel safe and more comfortable to speak about their experiences. The concept of therapy animals helping maltreated children is growing, but not all programs are the same and specific guidelines are needed for the safety of the children, therapy animal and staff. Ms. Phillips is the co-creator of Therapy Animals Supporting Kids (TASK)™ Program and will discuss how to work with volunteer handler/animal therapy teams, including mitigating risk and ensuring that no one, including the animal, is compromised. This workshop will discuss incorporating therapy animals as greeters at child advocacy centers, police stations, prosecutor’s offices and court houses; during the forensic interview, court preparation; and during courtroom testimony. The benefits and disadvantages of particular situations will be explored, including a detailed list of the do’s and don’ts in each setting. Specific examples of how children’s advocacy centers with successful programs will be featured. Legal objections and suggested responses will also be presented.

SPACE IS LIMITED; REGISTRATION REQUIRED TO ATTEND; NO ADDITIONAL FEE.

Compassion fatigue and vicarious trauma refer to the profound emotional and physical exhaustion that members of the helping and legal profession can develop over the course of their career. Staff can begin seeing changes in their personal and professional lives: they can become dispirited and increasingly bitter at work, they may contribute to a toxic work environment and may lose a respectful stance towards their clients. They can become short-tempered with their loved ones and feel constant guilt or resentment at the unending demands on their time. This presentation will cover topics such as: understanding the difference between compassion fatigue, vicarious trauma, burnout and moral distress; evaluating self-care and triggers; developing a strategic plan for individuals and as a team.
PRE-conference

Stemming the Tide of Youth Aging Out of the System: How Each Role Helps or Hinders Permanency for Youth

Setting a new tone and vision to establish model courts which incorporate best practices and goal setting to stem the tide of young people emancipating from the system without families or connections.

SESSION A

1. “Boys Don’t Cry”: Interviewing Techniques to Build Rapport with Boys to Talk About Difficult Issues

   Boy clients in particular often lack the vocabulary to talk about emotional issues and are afraid to display vulnerability, even in a private setting with a trusted adult. This panel explores unique issues faced by boys, and offers you gender-guided techniques to build rapport with your boy clients so you can most effectively represent them.

2. What Can You Do to Ensure Youth Are Meaningfully Engaged in Court?

   The courtroom is where major permanency decisions are made or ratified on behalf of youth in foster care. Learn what you can do to involve and engage youth in review and permanency hearings. This session will feature national experts, a young adult who was in foster care, a mental health professional, and a case study using data from Colorado.

3. Medicine and Advocacy for Children with Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders

   Dr. Laboriel, a fetal alcohol spectrum disorders expert, and Taylor Dudley, staff attorney at the Alliance for Children’s Rights, will (1) explain what FASD is and how it presents in a medical setting; (2) survey common challenges faced by children with FASD; and (3) discuss ways to overcome those challenges through doctor-lawyer collaboration.

4. The Affordable Care Act and Youth Formerly in Foster Care: An Overview and Update on State Outreach, Implementation and Opportunities

   This session will include an overview of the law and eligibility requirements for the new ACA provision for Medicaid to age 26 for youth formerly in foster care, a discussion of implementation issues and what some states are doing, and practice tips and resources for outreach to and ways to protect the rights of potentially eligible youth.

5. Keeping Kids Safe in Schools and in Treatment Settings: Ending the Use of Restraint and Seclusion

   Most people do not understand that treatment settings and schools (in particular) routinely engage in the planned use of physical restraint and seclusion of children. Children are harmed both physically and emotionally by use of the restraint and seclusion. This session includes advocacy strategies for professionals working with children.

SESSION B

1. Are You Still My Family?: Policy and Practice Surrounding Post-Adoption Sibling Visitation

   This panel will present an examination of the legal and non-legal barriers to post-adoption sibling visitation, and how the current practice of not protecting sibling relationships can be psychologically damaging to children.

2. Challenging Solitary Confinement and Other Conditions of Confinement Under the Evolving Juvenile 8th Amendment Jurisprudence

   Presenters will discuss their recent successful challenge to abusive solitary confinement practices in the NJ juvenile justice system as well as the potential for innovative and novel challenges to other conditions of confinement for children under the US Supreme Court’s evolving Eighth Amendment jurisprudence for children.

3. Improving Education Outcomes for Children in Foster Care: Avoiding the “Back-Pocket Surrogate”

   Learn how one jurisdiction is improving educational outcomes for children in foster care. The nuts-and-bolts of IDEA will be discussed and practical tips will be provided to give practitioners the tools they need to address the educational needs of children with disabilities.

4. Toward a Non-Adversarial Collaborative Attorney Culture in Child Welfare Proceedings

   Too often attorneys incorporate the culture and adversarial approach of criminal proceedings into the child protection and foster care case. It does not have to be that way. There is another paradigm, modeled after the transactional lawyer approach common to business practice or collaborative law in marital dissolution.
5: Transcending Transgender Bias: Advocating for Transgender Youth
The goals for this presentation are to provide background in the cultural competence necessary for appropriate advocacy for youth of transgender experience, to demonstrate, through specific case examples, how to litigate and advocate for their needs, with a focus on their specific medical needs, and to suggest creative solutions to address the many

SESSION C
1: Changing Child Welfare: What Can One Person Do?
Lawyers for children and families can be powerful agents of change when they understand the opportunities for reform. Two leading advocacy organizations will engage session participants in a vigorous discussion of how we can all work together to make our child welfare systems better serve children and families.

2: Advocacy at Child & Family Team Meetings, Agency Staffings and Other Out of Court Settings
Child welfare systems are increasingly utilizing child and family team meetings and other staffings to better serve children & families. Presentation will focus on advocacy techniques at those meetings: how to learn information, integrate it into a case theory & with client, & advocacy for a particular position at such meetings/staffings.

3: A Primer on Establishing ICPC Border Agreements
Learn the ins and outs of developing and implementing ICPC agreements with other states so as to expedite the ICPC process and positively impact children that are affected by this process. While definite buy-in is needed from the child welfare agencies, the participation of all stakeholders in the communities affected by this proves helpful.

4: Making the Most of Fostering Connections: Helping Transition Age Foster Youth Avoid the Subprime Education Trap
Enrollment at private for-profit institutions has been exploding, as have the student debt and default rates associated with attendance. This session will address federal and state laws and regulations that govern private for-profits, red flags of which foster youth and their advocates should be aware, remedies, resources, and how to access them.

5: What’s the Diagnosis?: Developing the Theory of the Case in Child-Centered Legal Proceedings using Mental Health Evaluations
Courts that hold child-centered proceedings may utilize mental health professionals to assist in their decision-making. Attorneys often incorporate mental health evaluations during their representation. Presenters will use small groups, hypotheticals, and sample mental health evaluations to discuss tips and case strategies.

SESSION D
This session is based on an article that analyzes why substantive and procedural due process of parents and children (even though this right has not been identified by the United States Supreme Court) requires a federal definition of “reasonable efforts”.

2. Challenges in Representing Pregnant and Parenting Teens in the Dependency System
Participants will hear from a panel of attorneys and a social worker on how to talk with pregnant and parenting teens about safe sex, pregnancy and parenting while in the foster care system. The panel will share effective interventions and discuss how to create system partners in your community to help improve the parenting skills of young parents

3. Improving Outcomes for Children through the Indian Child Welfare Act
This program will present portions of the recently developed National Judicial ICWA Curriculum developed by the Children’s Bureau’s Resource Center on Legal and Judicial Issues and the Resource Center for Tribes. Participants will gain a deeper understanding of the law and identify strategies for improving outcomes by engaging partners.

4. The Five Commandments of Special Education: Fundamentals of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and Tools for Child and Parent Advocacy
A combined overview of the fundamental requirements of the federal Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) with an explanation of tools to ensure that children’s and parents rights in and to special education are pursued and secured. Useful for attendees of all categories and experience levels.

5. The Court and Child Welfare: Moving from a Meaningful Connection to Making a Meaningful Change
Implementing change in a Children’s Court system is a daunting task. This workshop will detail the accomplishments of a leadership group of judges, assistant district attorneys, child welfare, private bar, public defenders and guardians ad litem who all came together to decide that business as usual is no longer acceptable.
SESSION E

1. Immigration Relief for Abused, Neglected or Abandoned Undocumented Children: The Child Welfare Agency and Juvenile Court Role
   An overview of immigration relief options available to immigrant youth, with a focus on the Special Immigrant Juvenile status, but including a discussion of U-Visas, T-Visas, and VAWA self-petitions. This session will include a discussion of how state courts can best interact with the federal system when working with undocumented children.

2. Child Discipline and the Law: Legal and Clinical Implications for African American Families
   This presentation will examine the legal definition of child abuse & neglect in the US and its implications for African American mothers and fathers. Strategies that legal, social work and mental health personnel can use to better interpret the parenting behaviors of African Americans in accordance to state law(s) will also be discussed.

3. The Kinship Care Paradox: How Child Welfare Provides Less Support for Youth in Placements Where We Most Want Them and What We Can Do to Fix It
   A primary goal of our child welfare system is to keep children with family where they are more likely to thrive. Another is to meet children's individualized needs with appropriate services and supports. Yet when children are placed with relatives, they often receive the least support even though kinship families often need the most support.

4. Stopping the Cradle to Prison Pipeline: Tools the Child's Attorney Can Use to Improve Outcomes for Dually Involved Youth
   CARE is a pilot program that provides intensive case management and support to foster youth on probation. CLC has partnered with MSW interns to provide youth with the information and support they need to navigate and complete their probation. The unit strives to improve communication, collaboration and improved long-term outcomes.

5. Cross Examining Expert Witnesses in Child Welfare Cases
   Cross examining witnesses is a difficult, acquired skill. Cross examining expert witnesses in a Child Welfare case where emotions and stakes are high and experts influence every major decision the court makes in a child’s life is an essential skill for every child welfare attorney. Come and learn practical tips for child welfare attorneys.

SESSION F

1. Advocating in the Dark: Addressing the Needs of Commercially Sexually Exploited Children (CSEC)
   This session is intended for practitioners who are, or suspect they are, representing commercially sexually exploited youth. The discussion will focus on the complex needs of the commercially sexually exploited child and creative ways to address those needs amid legal, educational and other service systems that are not yet poised to do so.

2. Emerging Issues in Substance Abuse Law: “Legal” Marijuana
   How has newly legalized marijuana - by prescription, statute, or law enforcement policy - changed our work in child protective, custody and visitation litigation? This session will include factual information on statutes and case law from around the country, discussion of possible litigation strategies and participant debate on hypothetical cases.

3. Truants, Runaways and Other Status Offenders: Case and System Advocacy
   Status offense behaviors such as running away or truancy are often caused or contributed to by significant challenges in the lives of youth, such as abuse or trauma. In this workshop, attorneys will learn courtroom strategies for representing status offenders as well as advocacy strategies for improving court and system responses to these youth.

4. Family Unity and Immigration Enforcement: ICE Policies Impacting Child Welfare
   An overview of how the federal immigration enforcement system operates. This presentation will include a discussion of the ICE Parental Interests Directive, which addresses ICE’s handling of cases involving parents involved in the child welfare system and will include tips for child welfare lawyers when interacting with the federal system.

5. What Are Reasonable Efforts?
   Take away skills: How to work with the parent client to determine what service or efforts would be reasonable. How to raise the issue of reasonable services early and often in the proceedings to ensure the parent gets the services they need to reunify. How to show whether reasonable services or efforts were provided.
