Women-owned Business Committed to Hiring Immigrant Workers

Kei & Molly Textiles, LLC is a woman-owned, artisan-quality printing studio dedicated to creating good jobs for immigrants and refugees. They design and handprint a variety of products, including dish towels, napkins, pillows, and other home and personal accessories. Their products are sold in over 350 stores nationwide, online, and through their brick-and-mortar retail store in Albuquerque, New Mexico. With help from an SBA 504 loan, Kei & Molly Textiles bought, renovated, and moved into a new production facility which tripled their studio space from 2,600 square feet to approximately 7,900 square feet.

With growing sales and stable occupancy costs, Kei & Molly Textiles is able to fulfill their goal to support the immigrant community. They are hiring many of their staff from refugee relocation service groups and offer extensive on-the-job training in areas ranging from workforce expectations to specific printing skills.

They offer a spectrum of social support ranging from public school registration to health care navigation to leadership development. Kei & Molly Textiles is also focused on the environment - to reduce impact they only use water-based inks, filter all their wastewater, and recycle fabric scraps into community projects through schools and community groups. Electrical needs are met through their new solar panel system. Kei & Molly Textiles showcases the extended impact the SBA 504 loan program can have beyond the business owner to the greater community.
