Mike McNamara Receives Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Educational Procurement

Mike McNamara, Director of Procurement Services at Northeastern University, has received the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Educational Procurement (NAEP). The award recognizes members who have provided extraordinary service to their institutions, the higher education community, the association or the purchasing profession. The award was presented at a ceremony held during the association's 2019 Annual Meeting in Kanas City, Missouri.

Mike was nominated by Rosey Murton, Chief Procurement Officer at Florida State University who notes that "his dedication to serving higher education is outstanding." Mike recently served as the NAEP District 1 Representative to the national Board of Directors and was tireless in his service for recruiting new members. His dedication to increasing membership of NAEP reflects his commitment to higher education procurement. Mike has over 40 years of service in the procurement profession including the last 33 years in higher education.

NAEP is pleased to honor Mike McNamara with the Distinguished Service Award.

About the National Association of Educational Procurement

Founded in 1921, NAEP's mission is to facilitate the development, exchange and practice of effective and ethical procurement principles and techniques within higher education and associated communities, through continuing education, networking, public information and advocacy. NAEP strives to be recognized as the Association dedicated to the advancement of excellence in the purchasing profession serving higher education and associated communities. More information on NAEP may be found at www.naepnet.org.
