Crisann McCloy Receives Young Professional Award from the National Association of Educational Procurement

Crisann McCloy, Senior Financial & Business Analyst at the University of Kentucky, has received the Young Professional Award from the National Association of Educational Procurement (NAEP). This Award recognizes the efforts of outstanding young procurement professionals that made great strides and contributions to the education procurement industry. The award was announced at a ceremony held during the association's 2019 Annual Meeting in Kanas City, Missouri.

Crisann was nominated by Melanie Freeman, Director of Education & Events at NAEP, who stated that "Crisann brings a dynamic personality to the NAEP Kentucky region." She volunteered as the secretary/ treasurer for the Kentucky region in 2018 and made significant contributions to the region and to the association.

NAEP is pleased to honor Crisann with the Young Professional Award.

About the National Association of Educational Procurement

Founded in 1921, NAEP's mission is to facilitate the development, exchange and practice of effective and ethical procurement principles and techniques within higher education and associated communities, through continuing education, networking, public information and advocacy. NAEP strives to be recognized as the Association dedicated to the advancement of excellence in the purchasing profession serving higher education and associated communities.
