INSTRUCTIONS TO COMPLETE THE LEADERSHIP WHEEL

LOOK AT THE WHEEL ON THE NEXT PAGE. The little man in the center is you. He is saying, “Come on group. Let’s move forward.” He is getting shot at – darned if you do and darned if you don’t.

Find the word “opinionated,” it is about 10:00. If you are opinionated to a larger degree, color the circle closest to the word. On the contrary, if you feel you are not opinionated at all, color in the circle closest to the man being shot at. If you’re not sure to what degree you are opinionated, color in one of the other two circles. Closer to the word, more like you are. Farther away, the least like you are. Only one dot per trait.

Now connect the dots together like children connect the dot puzzle. You will see a graphic illustration of your leadership abilities. This will probably help you see you in the clearest way you have ever seen yourself. Then, count the number of dots in the “outside circle” closer to the word. Write it down. Then third circle, second circle, and then first circle closest to the man, so you have four (4) sets of numbers. These should total 59. If not, you have missed a trait.

With this wheel, you are looking at your own uniqueness. Each is different from your team, but there are similarities too. Your peaks and valleys are different from your team. These are self-proclaimed strengths and weaknesses in leadership. This is a subjective evaluation of what you are in terms of character, personality, and leadership strengths.

During our Presidents’ Session, we will discuss the wheel and the type of leader you are!
