Welcome...

Greetings from the Chair of the Symposium Executive Planning Committee

Reverend Dr. W. Wilson Goode, Sr., President, AMACHI, Inc.

Dr. W. Wilson Goode, Sr.

Dr. W. Wilson Goode, Sr. is the President and CEO of Amachi, Incorporated, a nationally acclaimed faith-based program for mentoring children of incarcerated parents; and Chairman and CEO of Self, Incorporated – a nonprofit corporation dedicated to serving more than 600 homeless men and women. He is a Senior Fellow at the Fox School at the University of Pennsylvania. He became the City's first African American Mayor in 1984 and served two terms. Because of his innovative and ground-breaking work, he received two prestigious awards in 2006: the Civic Ventures Purpose Prize, and the Philadelphia Inquirer's Citizen of the Year Award. He is an ordained Baptist Minister since 1999 with more than 63 years of service at the First Baptist Church of Paschall located in southwest Philadelphia.

Dr. Goode has served as an officer in the United States Army. He led ground-breaking work in faith-based housing, assisting churches in building more than 2,000 units for low and moderate income persons. And, he was the first African American member and Chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission. He broke racial barriers again with his appointment as Managing Director for the City of Philadelphia. He subsequently spent 7 years as Deputy Assistant Secretary of Education in the Clinton Administration. He left that position in 2000 to organize the Amachi program which has now served more than 300,000 children in 50 States.

Dr. Goode is Chairman of the Philadelphia Leadership Foundation. He is a Board Member and Former Chairman of Big Brothers Big Sisters Independence Region, and the Free Library of Philadelphia. He is also former Chair of Partners for Sacred Places and the Cornerstone Christian Academy. He is a Board Member of America's Promise Alliance, Community In Schools of Philadelphia, and Eastern University. He is Chairman Emeritus of Leadership Foundations, and Emeritus Trustee of Southwest Leadership Academy Charter School.

Dr. Goode has earned degrees from Morgan State University (BA), the University of Pennsylvania (MA), Palmer, Theological Seminary (D. Min.), and fourteen conferred honorary doctorates. He is a member of Sigma Pi Phi Fraternity and Kappa Alpha Psi.

Dr. Goode and his wife of 56 years have one son, two daughters and two granddaughters.

Greetings!!

Welcome to the Statewide Symposium on Child Well-being and the Urgent Need for Father Involvement. I am honored to stand before you, not as President and CEO of Amachi, Inc. or as the former Mayor of Philadelphia, but as a grandfather, father, and man of faith who understands that the ever-changing world in which we live today is wreaking havoc on our families. Too many children are growing up without the benefit of two parents in the home; contributing to a host of undesirable outcomes. In Pennsylvania, 914,000 or 36% of the child population are without fathers in the home. As a state and as a nation, we must do better.

Thank you for taking the time to join us in our thorough examination of the critical role of both parents and the impediment to the involvement of fathers in the lives of their children. Our dialogue will begin a more active role to correct government and societal norms that create barriers to the all-important role of the father in the life of his/her child. After our work today, we will produce a comprehensive document with recommendations for consideration to ensure that we have better outcomes for families.

Throughout the course of the symposium, you will have the opportunity to hear from experts and take part in the transformative work undertaken by the Strong Families Commission. You will have the full power and influence of leaders from all spheres as we highlight policies and programs. As well, we will examine the government structures on which we rely for protection of the rights for all citizens. There is nothing of greater significance than the well-being of our children.

The time is now to get this critical work in the forefront and to get this right. We are grateful to have our esteemed elected officials join us for this undertaking along with a multitude of professionals, scholars, leaders, and concerned individuals. Together, we will make a difference and create the "ripple" by which our cities, state and nation will rethink, address and enact policies to positively impact our children, families and most importantly, fathers.

Sincerely,

W. Wilson Goode, Sr.

Re: Paternal Involvement with Abused and Neglected Children

Dear Dr. Lynch,

You requested that I write to explain Pennsylvania's current child welfare system, and to endorse the involvement of fathers and their families in the lives of their children.

Ten years ago, we began organizing Pennsylvania into a coherent child welfare community. We created county roundtables of involved individuals in most counties within Pennsylvania, leadership roundtables comprised of representatives from county roundtables of like-sized jurisdictions to allow joint problem-solving and system enhancement, and a state roundtable to ensure that all of Pennsylvania was working together in implementing best practices for our children. This effort was and remains coordinated by the Office of Children and Families in the Courts, lead remarkably by Sandy Moore, MSW. Through these collaborative efforts, we have reduced the number of children in foster care by about 7,000 during these ten years, and have seen a shift from congregate care and foster care to kinship care for those children remaining under state supervision.

As part of these efforts, we have recognized that fathers have the same responsibilities and, importantly, the same rights as mothers. We want them to be involved in parenting their children. Even when fathers are unable to fulfil this responsibility, we look to their families to participate in the raising of their children. We believe that to ignore fathers and their families is to disregard a large valuable resource for children.

I, Ms. Moore, and all involved in the Pennsylvania child welfare community congratulate you and your team for taking steps to enhance the involvement of fathers in the lives of their children. We look forward to working alongside you as we all strive to ensure that every child in Pennsylvania is raised by a competent and loving family member.

Sincerely,

Max Baer

Delegates of the Symposium:

It is my privilege to welcome all symposium participants to today's gathering, which is significant for many reasons. Long before agreeing to attend this event, each of you dedicated years of time and effort to improving the wellbeing of families in different parts of the Commonwealth. Many of you have been pioneers in projects to strengthen families through the development of Responsible Fatherhood programs and policies. Thank you for everything you've already contributed to this movement.

Today we're asking you to take another step forward by transcending our geographic and political boundaries to develop a plan that will enhance the positive impact of our work. It is our goal to build a statewide leadership group that will advance child wellbeing through the elimination of policy and program barriers that limit father inclusion. We hope that this work will generate action among policy makers across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and increase positive outcomes for children who can't succeed without the support of both their parents.

Pennsylvania has been slow to address the issue of Responsible Fatherhood at the statewide level. But your presence here today suggests that we have finally reached a point where constructive change is imminent. We know that research has shown a strong link between a father's absence and their child's subsequent economic deprivation, incarceration, addiction, or other devastating life event. This gathering gives us an extraordinary opportunity to turn that knowledge into public policies and system reforms that can radically improve the lives of thousands of children.

I encourage you to use our time together to strengthen your commitment to this movement, which has so much potential to nurture child welfare in every segment of our population. As leaders from many sectors that have an impact on youth across Pennsylvania, I urge you to share your deepest insights and most effective ideas so we can develop policy recommendations that maximize our investment of time and knowledge. We hope you will leave this event inspired by your colleagues and committed to taking future actions that will promote strong, healthy families and safe, happy children.

Sincerely,

Dear Delegates:

Welcome to the first Child Well-Being in Pennsylvania and the Urgent Need for Father Involvement Symposium. Your presence here today demonstrates your commitment to the importance of fathers' involvement in the lives of their children. During this time together our hope is that we will gain a better understanding of this importance and be able to better support the many components of an initiative of this magnitude. As you look around the room today you will see the faces of those representing the many components that range from policy makers, the judicial system, non-profit agencies, government entities, and the educational system to name a few. Together we have the awesome opportunity and charge to move this forward.

All the best to each of you for taking the time out of your busy schedules to be part of one more step in what's best for children. Our joint involvement here today highlights our potential collective impact on father involvement in our children's well-being across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Sincerely,

Dear Symposium Delegates:

On behalf of the Executive Committee and Members of The Strong Families Commission Incorporated ("THE COMMISSION") Board of Commissioners, welcome and thank you for your participation in our collaborative and historic statewide "Symposium on Child Well-Being in Pennsylvania and the Urgent Need for Father Involvement." Your presence and active participation is appreciated and essential to raising the level of discourse about the importance of father involvement and addressing needed change in relevant public policy and practice.

We are encouraged that you share THE COMMISSION's vision that children and youth across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and around the nation, will benefit from and should grow up with the emotional, social, physical, intellectual, spiritual, and financial support of both of their parents in healthy and supportive environments. The Mission of the Commission is to strengthen families and improve child well-being through the integration of Responsible Fatherhood; to advocate for the elimination of policy and program barriers that affect the successful reunification of children and families, including Fathers; leverage resources to contribute to the well-being of children and families; and, encourage collaboration among the Commonwealth's organizations, and beyond, that are family-focused and inclusive of Fathers.

As we look forward to the outcomes that this symposium will produce, we know that our ongoing work and success relies on your continued engagement. Therefore, we trust that today is just the start and provides the impetus needed as we continue collectively to move policy and practice to the point that our Commonwealth is recognized as a model for other states to follow supporting father involvement, including that of grandfathers and great grandfathers who often are taking care of our children.

Thank you, again, for serving as a delegate and for continuing to support and follow the work of THE COMMISSION. Please contribute to our work and access newsletters and updates at www.thestrongfamiliescommission.com

Sincerely,

Lynn Fields Harris

EVALUATION AND ADJOURNMENT

Dr. Rufus Sylvester Lynch, Chair, THE COMMISSION

Speakers and Panel Presenters

Bruce Lesley

President, First Focus, Washington, D.C.

Lesley has more than 25 years of public policy experience at all levels of government and a demonstrated commitment to making children's lives better. He directs all aspects of policy development and internal operations at First Focus. In 12 years on Capitol Hill, Lesley worked on health care, education, human services, and immigration issues in several different capacities. Prior to his work at First Focus, he served as Senior Health Policy Advisor on the Senate Finance and Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committees for U.S. Senator Jeff Bingaman. He also worked for U.S. Senator Bob Graham on the Senate Finance Committee, served as minority Chief of Staff for the Senate Special Committee on Aging, and was a legislative aide in the offices of U.S. Representatives Ronald Coleman and Diana DeGette.

The Honorable Eugene DePasquale

Auditor General of Pennsylvania

Auditor General DePasquale's ongoing work touches the lives of all Pennsylvanians. He is most proud of the work that led to fixing the state's child-abuse hotline, ChildLine, where more than 58,000 calls went unanswered before his audit; reducing the number of untested rape kits in Pennsylvania and across the nation; and recommending improvements in the state's response to the opioid crisis. He continues to fight to protect children from abuse, end the backlog of untested rape kits, make college affordable for the middle class, and ensure seniors have access to the services they need.

Janet Eisenberg Shapiro, Ph.D.

Dean, Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research, Bryn Mawr College

Janet Shapiro, MA, MSW, PhD, is Dean and Professor of Social Work at the Bryn Mawr Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research. Dr. Shapiro's main research interest is in the area of translational research and the application of developmental understanding of children and adolescents to programs and policies designed to support the wellbeing of children, adolescent and their families. Dr. Shapiro's most recent academic work is in the area of the neurobiology of early adversity and its implications for health and mental health across the lifespan, as well as an exploration of parental resilience within refugee families.

Kelly M. Hoffman

Pennsylvania Partnership for Children

is the KIDS COUNT Director at Pennsylvania Partnerships for Children (PPC), which is a strong, effective and trusted voice to improve the health, education and well-being of children and youth in the commonwealth. PPC's goal is simple: to make Pennsylvania one of the top 10 states to be a child and to raise a child. She serves on the national KIDS COUNT Steering Committee and regularly updates the Pennsylvania KIDS COUNT Data Center

David J. Pate, Jr., Ph.D.

Associate Professor at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Helen Bader School of Social Welfare

Pate is an Associate Professor at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Helen Bader School of Social Welfare, and an Affiliated Associate Professor of the Institute for Research on Poverty at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and a Faculty Affiliate of the Institute for Child and Well-Being at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Professor Pate's research projects involve the use of qualitative research methods to examine the relationship of non-custodial fathers of children on welfare and their interaction with their children, the child support enforcement system, and the impact of adverse childhood experiences on the well-being of African American adult males.

Carrie Jasper

Director, Outreach to Parents and Families, U.S. Department of Education

Ms. Jasper is the writer and editor of two monthly newsletters for families, Family, School and Community Engagement and Touching Base, specifically for military families. To further the Secretary's vision for parents Ms. Jasper with the family engagement team have held parent forums, roundtables, symposiums, and meetings across the country to train, educate, and inform parents. Ms. Jasper along with members of the family engagement team have held listen and learn sessions to hear from parents. To address the issue of dads not being involved in their children's schools, Ms. Jasper with the family engagement team have held father forums and roundtables across the country.

Larry L. Klinger, Jr.

Chair Fathers Collaborative Council of Western Pennsylvania

Mr. Klingler is a member of the Early Childhood, Family and Community Services Leadership Team and responsible for the implementation of high-quality, cost-effective, and meaningful early childhood and community programs that serve learners in Allegheny County. Legislative Sponsors

State Senator 8th District
Anthony Hardy Williams (D)
Philadelphia

Senator Williams never dreamed he'd hold elective office growing up. After majoring in economics at Franklin & Marshall College, he planned to use his academic experience to take over the business world.

Hone his skills at a Fortune 500 company, then, strike out on his own. He followed his plan, working as a corporate analyst, next as an executive for PepsiCo, and then launched his own vending company. Then his world exploded — literally. That's when he watched part of his childhood neighborhood engulfed in flames during the 1985 MOVE standoff in Philadelphia. He saw hopelessness creeping into formerly vibrant communities. He watched companies closing and jobs leaving, not just in his corner of the world, but all across PA. Fear rose. Opportunities waned. Something needed to be done. Someone had to address the issues hanging over kitchen tables and the boardroom tables alike. Someone had to have better ideas. At 31, he decided to try and tackle that challenge. In joining the Pennsylvania Legislature — first as state representative for the 191st District in 1988, then as state senator of the 8th District in 1998 — he resolved to make the needs of his constituents known, and has, with solid results.

Senator Williams' approach is simple, he sticks to a straightforward dictate: find the best ideas and implement them — regardless if they originate with a fellow Democrat, a Republican or an Independent. It's a commonsense, yet fearless approach to leadership that resists blind party allegiance or indebtedness to its patrons. It's how he operates in the Pennsylvania State Senate, where he serves as Democratic Whip, State Government (Chair) and a member of the Education, Communications and Technology, Law and Justice, Rules and Executive Nominations, Policy and Veterans Affairs and Emergency Preparedness committees.

His sense of advocacy compelled him to join the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, along with a number of community boards. As senator for the 8th District, one of the state's most populous, he connects with and offers solutions for citizens in small towns, suburban enclaves and urban centers, serving people of all economic, ethnic, religious, and cultural backgrounds with sensibility and compassion. That stems from the moral courage instilled in him by his father, the late Hardy Williams, the pioneering activist and former state senator, and his mother, Carole Williams-Green, a feisty and committed retired public school educator. And it's replenished by the inspiration he finds in his wife, Shari, and their two daughters, Asia and Autumn.

State Senator 16th District
Patrick M. Browne (R)
Lehigh County

Senator Browne serves as Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman. The committee, reviews all legislation for its fiscal impact and plays a crucial role in developing the state budget.

Before being elected Chairman, Senator Browne served as Senate Majority Whip for the 2011-12 and 2013-14 Legislative Sessions. Besides serving as Appropriations Committee Chairman, he is also a member of three Senate Committees: Education; Finance; and Health & Human Services, as well as the Senate Majority Policy Committee.

Senator Browne is Co-Chair of the bi-partisan, bi-cameral Early Childhood Education Caucus and the Legislative Arts and Culture Caucus. He is also Co-Chair of the PA Public School Building Construction and Reconstruction Advisory Committee (PlanCon) and had previously Co-Chaired both the Basic Education Funding Commission and the Special Education Funding Commission.

He also serves as a member of the board of the Public School Employees' Retirement System, the Pennsylvania Minority Business Development Authority, Pennsylvania Commission on Crime and Delinquency and the Legislative Audit Advisory Committee.

Senator Browne is the author of numerous state laws ranging from child protection legislation to education initiatives to reforming state government. He drafted key portions of Act 120 of 2010 which fundamentally reformed Pennsylvania's public pension systems and created an independent fiscal office to monitor state spending and the budget process. Senator Browne was instrumental in developing the Pennsylvania Web Accountability and Transparency (Penn WATCH) Act, which expanded the public's access to state spending records by creating and maintaining a searchable, database-driven budget website.

In 2009, Senator Browne crafted the one-of-a-kind, 130-acre Neighborhood Improvement Zone (NIZ) to help revitalize and expand the tax base of the then financially-struggling city of Allentown. To date over $2 billion of new development investment in Allentown and more than $3 million in annual school property tax revenues for Allentown School District have been generated through the zone. The NIZ has already served as a model for economic development in other distressed areas — cities, boroughs and townships — throughout the Commonwealth with the creation of the City Revitalization and Improvement Zones (CRIZ) which will afford a similar tax financing program to smaller cities in Pennsylvania.

Born and raised in Allentown, Senator Browne attended Allentown Central Catholic High School. He resides in Allentown with his wife, Heather, and son, Alex.

Open Letter to Symposium Delegates

On behalf of the Symposium Executive Planning Committee, it is with tremendous pleasure that I welcome you as Delegates to the September 27, 2017 Symposium on Child Well-Being in Pennsylvania and the Urgent Need for Father Involvement. This Symposium has been on the drawing board for a long time. It started as a dream of mine while serving as a Senior Fellow at the Stoneleigh Foundation with a joint appointment as Research Associate at Bryn Mawr College Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research. The Senior Fellow's Project was to explore the integration of Responsible Fatherhood within foster care service delivery, and other children and youth servicing systems. The fundamental purpose of the project was to champion the conversation and build an awareness of the value of Responsible Fatherhood programming within children, youth and family-focused service systems to improve well-being outcomes for children in Philadelphia, throughout the Commonwealth, and across the nation.

I, like so many others, believe that too many children across the country, including many in Pennsylvania are without the benefit of both parents in the home, often an absent Father, resulting in negative impacts on child well-being. Indeed, data indicates that these children are more likely to have a tougher time than their peers with two parents in the same household. I propose if we want as a society to reverse the trend of father absence, that our communities across America must take ownership of a clear vision for men within families. Central to this vision includes recognizing the role and value of fathers within the lives of children, as well as providing supportive services for Responsible Fatherhood to thrive.

Thanks to the contributions of: the U.S. Administration for Children and Families, Region III; Allegheny Intermediate Unit, AMACHI, Inc., Bryn Mawr College GSSWSR; Child Welfare League of America, Delta Community Supports, Inc.; Fathers Collaborative Council of Western Pennsylvania, PECO, Philadelphia Department of Behavioral Health & Intellectual disability Services; Philadelphia Leadership Foundation, PWRT, Stoneleigh Foundation; and the National Association of Social Workers – Pennsylvania Chapter, we are able to come together as a statewide platform to "Advocate for Children, Fathers & Stronger Families.

In that regard, we need each of you to be prepared to spend the day with us hammering out a strategy that gives universal meaning to the phrase "Greater Father Involvement...Brighter Future for Children" all across the Commonwealth.

Dear Dr. Lynch:

Thank you for your letter inviting me to serve as a delegate to the September 27, 2017 Symposium at the Pennsylvania Child Welfare Resource Center in Mechanicsburg.

Unfortunately, due to prior commitments I will be unable to attend this event. The Pennsylvania House of Representatives has a voting session scheduled for September 27th. Additionally, as the Chair of the House Children and Youth Committee I will be presiding over a previously scheduled committee meeting on this date.

I will make every effort to stop by the reception and information session on Tuesday, September 26th.

Thank you again for your kind invitation.

Sincerely,

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
DEPARTMENT OF AGING

August 31, 2017

Dr. Rufus Sylvester Lynch, ACSW
NASW Social Work Pioneer®
P.O. Box 13502
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19101

Dear Dr. Rufus:

As follow up to our recent conversation, allow me to again thank you for inviting the Pennsylvania Department of Aging to participate in The Strong Families Commission's "Symposium on Child Well-Being in Pennsylvania and the Urgent Need for Father Involvement." As discussed, I welcome the opportunity to attend the Symposium as a Delegate, but regretfully, I have a prior engagement that will prevent me from doing so. Notwithstanding, in order to ensure that the voice of the aging network is part of the conversation on this important topic, I would be grateful if you would allow a member of my staff to attend the Symposium on my behalf.

To this end, as part of our obligations under the Older Americans Act (OAA), the Department facilitates the National Family Caregiver Support Program, which is supported by Title III-E OAA funds. The Department's Caregiver Support Program Coordinator is Troy Dunston, who I recommend attend the Symposium on my behalf. The synergy between the Family Caregiver Support Program and the reality that so many families are facing as they strive to care for their children in a safe, healthy, supportive environment is palpable. From our current lens, we recognize that a growing number of Pennsylvania's children under the age of 18 are living in homes where the householders are grandparents or other relatives; and in this environment of limited resources and greater challenges, such as grandparents raising their grandchildren due to the opioid crisis, our capacity to communicate and collaborate effectively is essential. As such, our Department's participation in the Symposium is welcomed, necessary, needed. If you are agreeable to supporting this request, please let us know the next steps needed to have Mr. Dunston provided with the details beyond the save the date information that was shared.

Lastly, as discussed I welcome the opportunity to further our dialogue on this topic as together we strive to serve, support, protect, enable, and empower Pennsylvania's families. In the meantime, be assured of my support and best wishes to you and the members of The Strong Families Commission for a successful Symposium.

Respectfully,
