We're happy it's a leap year! Because that means we have an extra day in this very busy month of February. From planning LEAD Day and a 2-day conference on Serving Sexual and Gender Minority Clients, we're also gearing up for Social Work Month in March. Many regional events have been planned and we hope you'll join us in celebrating "Social Workers: Generations Strong!"

It's time to submit proposals for our 2020 Annual Conference
NASW Indiana is accepting proposals for the 2020 Annual Conference on September 21 and 22, 2020. Are you the go-to person at your agency for resources and information on self-care or handling difficult clients? Do you conduct trainings in your local community on addictions, depression, or other social work related topics? Has your agency developed an innovative tool or process for supporting clients? If you answered yes to any of these questions, please consider submitting a proposal. The conference is designed to focus on professional development, social worker physical and mental self-care, alternative practices and therapies, as well as issues related to practice of social work in general. Deadline to submit is March 1, 2020. Help us make the conference a success by submitting your proposal right away!

There's still time to register
The NASW Indiana Conference on Serving Sexual and Gender Minority Clients is February 27 & 28, and seats are limited! This two-day conference is designed to provide social services practitioners with the knowledge necessary to serve clients that identify as sexual and/or gender minorities in a culturally-responsive manner. 13.25 CEHs are available, including 1 Ethics CE each day of the event. Don't delay - registration will close on February 20th!
