The National Association of Social Workers- NYC Chapter (NASW-NYC) is coordinating with Governor Cuomo’s office to help support and respond to an urgent plea asking that qualified mental health professionals supplement New York’s Health Care infrastructure.

New York State is asking that qualified mental health providers help build a reserve workforce that can help respond to the COVID-19 crisis. Everyone is impacted by this crisis and the behavioral health needs of individuals and communities are even more pressing as we navigate the uncertainty and unprecedented times that COVID-19 has created. As the largest provider of mental health services in America, social workers are uniquely positioned to respond to this call.

To learn more and to volunteer, qualified professionals are asked to complete a survey at: health.ny.gov/assistance. Below, a screen grab has been provided. Click on the tab for Health, Mental Health and Related Professionals.

Health Professional Survey

Please review the survey and once you filled out the information, hit “submit.” The National Association of Social Workers-NYC Chapter encourages our membership and the larger social work community to consider joining Governor Cuomo’s efforts to support the mental health needs of all New Yorkers and work together to address the COVID-19 crisis.
