NASW-NYC Update

NYC DOE Early Childhood Program

November 7, 2022

The National Association of Social Workers-New York City chapter (NASW-NYC) has long supported the expansion of school-based social work services and believes that having social workers as an integral part of the education system is vital to supporting the bio-psycho-social and mental health needs of our youth. NASW-NYC members and the social work community have identified the dismissal of social workers and other early childhood professionals in the NYC Department of Education as a concern. We wanted to share the latest developments that are available regarding this matter:

Early childhood division workers blast DOE over scrapped positions - POLITICO