We, the students in the Student Association of Social Work (SASW); Student affiliate to the National Association of Social Workers (NASW) at The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP), stand for Social Justice and Equality for all. On October 12, 2020 the Texas State Board of Examiners (TSBSWE) and Behavioral Health Executive Council (BHEC), severely restricted the Social Work Field after a last-minute rule from the Governor’s Office was proposed and accepted. It alters the Social Work Code of Conduct (RULE §781.201.) This rule stated: A social worker shall not refuse to perform any act or service for which the person is licensed solely on the basis of a client's age; gender; race; color; religion; national origin; disability; sexual orientation; gender identity and expression; or political affiliation. The new rule from the Governor’s Office removed the protections for Gender Identity, Sexual Orientation, and clients with disabilities. Social Justice is a core social work value and it demands that all social workers, whether practitioner, academic, or researcher, uphold our Code of Ethics by taking deliberate actions to ensure that justice and equity exist in all communities. Social workers understand the history of oppression that has led the LGBTQAI Community and clients with disabilities to feel unsafe and underserved. There have been great strides in equality that has been gained in the recent additions to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits workplace discrimination based on religion, national origin, race, color, gender, or sexual orientation. As well, the rule change is in direct conflict with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, revised 2008 and effective on January 1, 2009. The ADA was originally enacted in public law format and later rearranged and published in the United States Code. The United States Code is divided into titles and chapters that classify laws according to their subject matter. Titles I, II, III, and V of the original law are codified in Title 42, chapter 126, of the United States Code beginning at section 12101. This act prevents discrimination of a person with a defined disability as defined in Title 42, Chapter 126, Section 12101, Subsection 12111. If the changes voted on are accepted in to the Social Work Code of Conduct, this protection of equality will be lost and allow for discrimination to take place. As social workers, it is our duty and ethical responsibility to address discrimination and all forms of social injustice. We must support and advocate for the change in the Social Work Code of Conduct to be overthrown and have it reverted back to protect the service for all, immediately. We are calling for the TSBSWE and the BHEC to vote on this issue again on October 27th to allow for autonomy for all social workers to add their input before changes to the Social Worker Code of Conduct is implemented without Social Worker Input.
