

Responding to Texas' Efforts to Shut Down Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) Programs Through the Passage of SB 17

RESOURCES FOR STUDENTS AT PUBLIC
UNIVERSITIES IN TEXAS

My University has stopped their DEI programming...what can I do?

Look for Student Organizations at your University or School that have stepped up to fill in the gaps left by the elimination of DEI programming.

SB 17 regulations only apply to State Schools...see what Private Schools are doing! Many are still continuing DEI programming and will have resources.

Reach out to local non-academic organizations. Some resources are located below, and you can search for more that are local to you.

Continue to educate yourself on issues of intersectionality, bias, diversity, equity, and inclusion.

RESOURCES

University of Texas DEI Resources Page - An archival list with educational resources. Provides links to recommended reading, watching, and listening on a wide variety of DEI-related topics.

The Bias Inside Us - A self-paced educational online exhibition through the Smithsonian Institution that helps to better understand bias, the implicit biases we hold, the historical patterns of bias, and how we can train ourselves to check our implicit biases.

NASW SOGIE Committee Resource List - A list of Texas organizations and resources with a diverse range of service types and locations around the state. This list focuses on LGBTQ+ related resources. Click here to download the list!

PFLAG - The largest organization dedicated to supporting, educating, and advocating for LGBTQ+ people and their families. Click here to see their resource list on their website, and click here to search for a local chapter near you.
