The Case for Financial Wellness

Powered by the Foundation for Financial Wellness

Course Overview

Individuals who complete The Case for Financial Wellness will enhance their understanding of financial wellness and how financial wellness impacts the Six Dimensions of Wellness. By taking part in the course, wellness professionals will have access to tools and materials that will allow them to create a clear argument for financial wellness inside their organizations and community programs. To use the materials included in this course, participants must successfully complete all elements of The Case for Financial Wellness course, including an online quiz.

At the end of this course, participants will be able to answer 3 primary questions:

- Why is financial wellness important to individuals (i.e., those we serve)?
- Why is financial wellness important to the wellness professional's toolkit?
- Why is financial wellness important to a business or organization?

Objectives

Participants will be able to:

- Determine how financial wellness impacts all aspects of the Six Dimensions of Wellness Model (including all areas of a person's work and home life).
- Recall the names of the 5 Essentials for Financial Wellness.
- Provide a logical argument for providing financial wellness education to individuals, communities, and organizations.
- Reflect on current neuroscience and how our physiology and cognitive strategies play a direct role in our financial wellness.
- Identify how an individual's financial wellness relates to the NWI Multicultural Wellness Wheel.
- Recognize the Foundation for Financial Wellness (including its educators, facilitators and counselors) as a non-solicitous, financial wellness organization.

Continuing Education Credit (CEC) for Financial Wellness Trainings

Participants can earn 2 CECs toward certifications they currently hold. A CEC certificate will be e-mailed to individuals who select their desired CEC certificate(s) when completing the post-training evaluation form.
