NCAN’s research documents the prevalence of “unaffordability” at public two-year and four-year institutions for students from low- and moderate-income families. The following charts demonstrate the affordability landscape of postsecondary education. When net price and emergency expenses are not covered by subsidized loans and student earnings from part-time employment, NCAN defines the remaining deficit as an “affordability gap.” In instances where the sum of loans and wages equals or surpasses the sum of net price and emergency costs, we refer to the surplus as “an affordability margin.”

Percent of Affordable Institutions (2021-2022)

- West Virginia: 75%
- United States: 63%

Average Affordability Gaps & Margins (2021-2022)

- West Virginia:
  - 2-Year Institutions: $-2,839
  - 4-Year Institutions: $-2,256
- United States:
  - 2-Year Institutions: $-2,557
  - 4-Year Institutions: $-2,026

The Pell Grant is a federal need-based aid award that helps millions of students annually.

State grant programs are crucial for college access and success, and can be based on financial need, merit, or a variety of factors.

Average Undergraduate Grant Aid (per FTE)

- West Virginia:
  - 2-Year Institutions: $1,743
  - 4-Year Institutions: $1,338
- United States:
  - 2-Year Institutions: $1,216
  - 4-Year Institutions: $1,124

Source: SHEEO, 2022. “State Higher Education Finance (SHEF) Report.”

There are 44,006 Pell Grant recipients in West Virginia.

West Virginia receives $178,387,983 in Pell Grant funding each year.

Source: Federal Student Aid Pell Grant 2021-2022 End of Year Report.
College Access & Completion in West Virginia

The Financial Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) determines eligibility for many types of financial aid. FAFSA completion is strongly associated with college enrollment. Nationally, 59% of high school seniors completed the FAFSA for the 2023-2024 cycle.

56% of high school seniors in West Virginia completed a FAFSA for the 2023-2024 cycle (as of 7/1/2023).

West Virginia ranks 16th in FAFSA Completion.

The WEST VIRGINIA Class of 2023 left $18 million in Pell Grants unclaimed, by not completing a FAFSA.

The chart to the right reflects degree attainment (including an associate’s degree or higher,) for adults ages 25 and older.

Source: NCAN, Pell Dollars Left on the Table Report.