FREE College Planning Convention for N.H. High School Juniors Saturday, March 30, 2019

The State's Largest Statewide College Admissions and Financial Aid Planning Event

Concord, N.H. – Over 1,200 New Hampshire high school juniors, parents, and guardians are scheduled to attend the 20th Annual Destination CollegeSM event at Plymouth State University (PSU) on Saturday, March 30. This free college planning convention, designed to help high school juniors and their families to become college- and career-ready, is hosted by The NHHEAF Network Organizations (NHHEAF), a statewide nonprofit organization located in Concord.

The event begins in PSU's Hartman Union Building's Courtroom at 8:30 a.m. with welcome addresses from U.S. Senator Maggie Hassan (D-NH), NHHEAF's President and CEO Christina Thornton and PSU's Dean of Enrollment Management Jason Moran. Two keynote speeches will be delivered by this year's Destination College Speech Contest winners, and $1,000 college scholarship recipients, Milford High School senior Margaret Sawyer and Oyster River High School senior Kerstin Nielsen.

Registered attendees will have access to a variety of informational workshops by expert presenters on topics including college admissions, financial aid, scholarship searching, and career exploration. In addition to workshops, attendees are encouraged to attend the Destination College college fair from 12:30 to 2 p.m. which features over 60 colleges and universities. The college fair, located in the Hartman Union Building's Courtroom, is open to the public with no prior registration required.
