Community Forum -- Terms of Use

The North Carolina Pediatric Society (NCPeds) is providing this Community Forum ("Forum") as a benefit for NCPeds’ members. The only permitted use of the Forum is for sharing, collaborating and networking. By accessing the Forum, you agree to these terms and conditions ("Terms"). Failure to comply with the Terms may result in NCPeds restricting access to you as user. The Forum is provided as a privilege and therefore NCPeds may act, in its discretion, to change the Terms at any time, restrict use of the Forum, take down any posting to the Forum, or to discontinue the Forum. As used herein, “you” or “your” refers to the member who is accessing the Forum. There is no anonymous posting or participation.

NCPeds makes no guarantee of validity and no representation or warranty whatsoever regarding the completeness, quality, or adequacy of the content contained on the Forum or the content or suitability, functionality, fitness for a particular purpose, or operation of this web site or its content. By using this web environment, you assume the risk that the content may be inaccurate, incomplete, or offensive or that the information may not meet your needs or requirements. The views, statements and positions that may be posted to this Forum belong to those who made the posting and NCPeds does not endorse any of such postings. NCPeds is under no obligation to review and monitor the postings to this Forum but encourages the users to self-police the Forum and to report any concerns to NCPeds.

All persons posting information to the Forum warrant and represent that they have the copyrights to those works and the right to post the information to the Forum and shall indemnify NCPeds for any third-party claims relating to such intellectual property rights.

Information posted has not been peer reviewed unless it is otherwise indicated to have been peer reviewed in the information posted. The Forum shall not be considered to be professional legal or medical advice.

Members participating in the Forum shall act in an ethical manner consistent with professional codes of ethics, and state and federal law. Members shall not disclose any client confidences or make any statements that reveal confidential information that could lead to the identification of any client or other person with whom they have a confidential relationship.

Federal law prohibits any price fixing among two or more healthcare providers to raise, lower or stabilize fees, or any boycotts of companies over reimbursement issues, among other prohibitions. Members shall avoid all discussions concerning current fees members charge, future fee increases or decreases, agreements to raise or lower fees, the setting of any fees, and boycotting of insurers or other third-party payers, or any other discussions or posting that is, or that may be perceived to be, any form of express or implied collective agreement that may be anti-competitive at any level.
