Rebecca Tepper

Rebecca is the Chief of the Energy and Telecommunications Division of the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office. Rebecca serves as the Attorney General's chief advisor on energy policy and executes the Attorney General's statutory function of ratepayer advocate before state and federal regulators and courts.

Prior to joining the Attorney General's Office, Rebecca was the General Counsel to the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities. As General Counsel, Rebecca served as the chief legal advisor to the Commission and oversaw all Department adjudicatory and rulemaking proceedings. Prior to her role as General Counsel, Rebecca served as the Director of the Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Board where she chaired the Siting Commission's siting reform, interagency cooperation and legislative initiative subcommittees. Rebecca also served as a Governor's representative to the Eastern Interconnection States' Planning Council.

Before joining the State in 2009, Rebecca had 15 years of experience in the private sector, as a partner at the law firm of Rubin and Rudman, LLP. At Rubin and Rudman, Rebecca represented developers throughout the Northeast in siting, permitting, financing and contracting of renewable, distributed generation and conventional energy facilities. She also advocated on behalf of various stakeholders before state public utility commissions and the FERC in proceedings involving rates, energy efficiency, demand response and the ISO-NE markets and rules.

Rebecca is a magna cum laude graduate of Boston University Law School and received her bachelor of arts from the University of Wisconsin/Madison.
