Member Ideas May Lead to Great Success – I listen to others ideas and attempt to implement them to improve PSAPs and address issues.

1. In 2005 Ron heard a member talk about their state's telecommunicator response teams that helped PSAPs when disasters occurred. Ron took that idea to the NENA and APCO National Boards and in 2006 NENA and APCO established the NENA/APCO National Joint TERT Initiative (NJTI) with hopes of taking this idea for telecommunicator assistance nationwide. Ron was chosen to serve as the NENA Co-Chair of NJTI. With an initial 3 states with TERT teams, we now have over 25 states with TERT teams ready to assist PSAPs in times of natural or manmade disasters. All from a member's idea and Ron listening!
2. In 2009 Ron met Nathan Lee, the husband of murdered wife Denise Amber Lee, who was a victim's advocate. Nathan had an idea to improve 9-1-1 by requiring mandatory telecommunicator training and quality assurance. Ron took Nathan's idea to the National NENA Board and a relationship developed that led to the formation of NENA and APCO working groups, of which Ron was a participant, that successfully developed:
  - ANSI NENA/APCO PSAP Quality Assurance standard
  - NENA/APCO Minimum Dispatcher Training Requirements
3. Additionally, when Nathan and NENA began the process only 6 states had mandatory training, now that number has increased substantially.
4. Since 2009, Ron serves as a Denise Amber Lee Foundation Board member

He continues to serve as NENA Board liaison to the Federal Railroad Administration resulting in ANSI NENA Railroad and PSAP Interaction standard.

He is an accomplished speaker having presented topics at state, national and international 9-1-1 conferences and has written articles. Ron earned his ENP / CMCP.

Since 2012 Ron has served as the Chair of the NENA historical committee and has worked with the NENA Historical Collection and prepared the First 9-1-1 Call's 50th Anniversary exhibit used at National NENA in Nashville in 2018.

With a firm belief in the value of education of our members, through NENA Conference Scholarships, Ron is a yearly contributor to the Friends of 9-1-1 Scholarship Program.
