NFRC 2019 Spring Committee Meeting Recap

On March 25-27 experts from the fenestration community and NFRC members came together in Baltimore to discuss industry best practices, updates to NFRC’s ratings data and how NFRC-certified windows drive energy efficiency in homes and buildings nationwide. Attendees to the spring meeting heard from a representative from the Department of Energy’s Lawrence Berkeley National Labs and participated in Volunteer Leaders Network sessions to gain career skills and guidance. Also, NFRC welcomed Anthony Cinnamon, principal at Wiss, Janney, Elstner Associates Inc. and Lisa Winckler, director at Eastman Chemical Company to the board of directors.

To speed up registration and reduce paper waste NFRC rolled out a new mobile app that was met with acclaim from meeting attendees.

NFRC also recognized outgoing board members with awards for their unique contributions:
- Mahabir Bhandari of Oak Ridge National Laboratory, general interest board member.
- Garrett Stone, principal at Stone, Mattheis & Xenopoulos, and Regulatory Affairs Committee Chair.
- John McFee, VP of certification programs at the Windows & Doors Manufacturers Association, and Ratings Committee Chair
