Dear Upper Michigan Lumber Dealers & Suppliers:

Today, Governor Gretchen Whitmer issued a 'stay home, stay safe' executive order for all Michigan residents starting at 12:01 a.m. on Tuesday, March 24 until April 13 at 11:59 p.m.

In doing so, Governor Whitmer's order also requires the closure of all non-essential businesses.

In partnership with the Midwest Building Suppliers Association (MBSA) and the National Lumber & Building Material Dealers Association (NLBMDA), NLA is pleased to report that lumber and building material dealers and their suppliers based in Michigan are EXEMPT from this order.

Under the Executive Orders and Homeland Security's list of Essential Infrastructure Workers, lumber and building material dealers and their customers are allowed to go to work during the "Stay at Home" Order dates. Although going to work is permitted, dealers and their customers must comply with all other workplace safety and virus mitigation procedures set forth by the Centers for Disease Control & Prevention (CDC).

Last week, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the Federal Government issued guidance for helping state and local legislators determine what is essential and what is not.

Department of Homeland Security Guidance for Essential Businesses

You will note on page 6 of the DHS Guidance - under Food & Agriculture - that "workers who support the manufacture and distribution of forest products, including, but not limited to timber, paper, and other wood products" are deemed "essential" by the Department of Homeland Security & the Federal Government.

Michigan has followed in the footsteps of numerous other states including California, Ohio and New York in issuing its order which is summary relies on the Department of Homeland Security List in its Order's formulation. Again, LBM operations ARE considered essential infrastructure personnel.

Initial guidance provided by the Association and its partners noted that contractors were also deemed “essential”. Although the Department of Homeland Security’s Guidance has been updated to include residential and commercial construction as “essential” infrastructure fields, last week, the Governor updated her executive order to denote that "Some limited forms of construction are permissible, including construction to maintain and improve essential public works like roads, bridges, the telecommunications infrastructure, and public health infrastructure," she continued "Construction workers may also undertake such projects as necessary to maintain and improve the safety, sanitation, and essential operations of residences."

The Association will continue to work with industry partners to gain further clarification of the Governor’s order(s) and will continue to encourage the Governor and her office to deem construction as “essential” per the DHS & CISA guidance.
