

NPMA Spotlight Webinar - A2B Bakertilly

Modern Technology is transforming Government Property Management

Property Managers are being asked to move faster, with more accuracy and efficiency than ever before. Contractors need to embrace technology to be able to keep pace with these higher expectations; but also, to better position themselves for compliance to their contract obligations.

This free, NPMA Spotlight Webinar on April 27th, will explore the latest technology advancements in RFID, data collection and automated reporting to Government systems for today's Property Manager.

During this session we will discuss how modern technology can provide significant operational efficiencies along with improved audit readiness - at the same time, we will also address how the importance of Internal Controls and Contractor Self Assessments have never been more important.

In this live webinar, you will learn:

- The key FAR 52.245-1 Outcomes that are impacted dramatically with the latest Government Property technology
- How to balance automated technologies with Internal Controls and Contractor Self Assessments
- Benefits of automated reporting to Government Systems
- Interconnectedness of the Business systems and importance of integration with Accounting, Estimating and Purchasing systems

Save your seat for Thursday, April 27th at 2pm EST for this free webinar.
