The Andrew C. Anderson Lifetime Achievement award is in memory and in honor of Andy Anderson, for his immeasurable contributions to NPMA and the Property profession.

This award is given to active NPMA members who have contributed to the property management profession and NPMA over a long period of time (20+ years of property management and 15+ years of NPMA membership).

It is with great pride and appreciation that the National Property Management Association (NPMA) recognizes Steven F. Holland, CPPM, CF, as the 2026 recipient of the Andrew C. Anderson Lifetime Achievement Award.

This honor is especially meaningful, as Andrew C. Anderson was Steven's mentor, making the award a reflection not only of Steven's extraordinary career, but also of the professional legacy and values passed down through mentorship. Steven's more than 46 years of service in logistics and asset/property management represent a career defined by leadership, innovation, and steadfast dedication to the profession.

Throughout his career, Steven has served as a trusted advisor to senior federal leaders, intelligence community executives, and private sector organizations, helping shape policy, strengthen accountability, and improve the effectiveness of government property management programs nationwide. A defining aspect of his work has been his direct contribution to foundational policy and governance within the Intelligence Community. He was a primary author of the Intelligence Community Standard on Accountability and Management of Property, Plant, and Equipment (PP&E) and played a key role in developing logistics frameworks and governance charters that continue to influence federal asset management practices.

Steven's impact on NPMA has been equally profound. As National Director of Legislative Affairs and current Vice Chair of the NPMA Council of Fellows, he has helped guide the Association's strategic priorities while advocating for the vital role of property management at the national level. His leadership, integrity, and commitment to continuous improvement have set a lasting standard for excellence.

NPMA is proud to honor Steven Holland for his outstanding contributions, enduring legacy, and the meaningful connection to the mentor whose name this distinguished award bears. Congratulations Steven!
