The following is a list of activities and items of interest that occurred during the Fall of 2018 and Spring of 2019 through the Indiana Society of Professional Land Surveyors (ISPLS):

- The 2019 ISPLS Annual Convention was held from January 16th to 18th at the French Lick Resort in French Lick, Indiana. This was the first convention that had been held in Indianapolis in ten years. The convention was sponsored by the Hoosier Hills Chapter of ISPLS. Key speakers included Gary Kent, Wendy Lathrop, and John Stahl.

- During the Annual Business Meeting at the convention, it was reported that there had been some indications another attempt might be in the works to create bills to modify professional licensure. ISPLS played a large part in the efforts to defeat similar attempts at this a few years ago. Nothing new on this topic was available at this time.

- Outgoing ISPLS Board President Ryan Swingley presented a posthumous Lifetime Achievement Award to E. Donald Bengal at the Annual Conference. Don passed away on June 9, 2018.

- ISPLS leadership began to gather a group of educators to help the society to develop a program on “Path to Licensure”. Educators from Vincennes University, Cincinnati State Technical and Community College, Purdue University, Purdue University Northwest, and Purdue University Fort Wayne, along with other members of ISPLS, met in the late summer of 2018 to gather information regarding existing educational options in land surveying and to begin exploring ways to allow for ways for necessary courses to be regularly accessible for students desiring licensure in Indiana.

- The society has been involved in several Workforce Development items and activities. These have included updating of brochures, distributing the Get Kids into Surveying posters, developing appropriate social media tools, and presentations at high school open houses and job fairs.

- ISPLS held full-day review sessions for the PS Exam on September 22, 2018 and on March 30, 2019.
