

Step One: Be prepared to listen.

Step Two: Ask yourself, “What does the constituent really want?”

Step Three: Connect by showing appropriate empathy and establish collaborative dialogue.

Step Four: Address the practical problem together as a collaborative team.

Step Five: Ask for feedback.

Step Six: Thank the constituent for calling.

Step One: Be prepared to listen.

Step Two: Ask yourself, “What does the constituent really want?”

Step Three: Connect by showing appropriate empathy and establish collaborative dialogue.

Step Four: Address the practical problem together as a collaborative team.

Step Five: Ask for feedback.

Step Six: Thank the constituent for calling.

Step One: Be prepared to listen.

Step Two: Ask yourself, “What does the constituent really want?”

Step Three: Connect by showing appropriate empathy and establish collaborative dialogue.

Step Four: Address the practical problem together as a collaborative team.

Step Five: Ask for feedback.

Step Six: Thank the constituent for calling.

Step One: Be prepared to listen.

Step Two: Ask yourself, “What does the constituent really want?”

Step Three: Connect by showing appropriate empathy and establish collaborative dialogue.

Step Four: Address the practical problem together as a collaborative team.

Step Five: Ask for feedback.

Step Six: Thank the constituent for calling.