Oklahoma Librarian
A Message from the O. L. A. President

As I was reading a good book last night I paused and reflected about Oklahoma Library Association affairs on which I had been working earlier in the evening. With particular force the thought struck me that all our efforts are to make it possible for an individual to read a book. It will be in the new year before planning moves over to action so that ultimately anywhere in Oklahoma a man, a woman, a boy or a girl may read good books.

The willingness of librarians in Oklahoma to accept the duties and responsibilities of committee association work has been a constant delight. With such a spirit, when the extended library program goes into action, much can be done by the present librarians of Oklahoma, though we all know that our ranks must be increased by newly trained librarians.

Many individual librarians have contributed to the program of the association but it seems to me that the Oklahoma Librarian has contributed more than any other one thing to a vital association. Under the editorship of Frances Kennedy, Allie Beth Martin before her, and others, with William Lowry as business manager, it has served as a means of communication important for the association. Not only has it presented good articles and news but it carries our membership list, our officers and committee members, and in this issue our constitution and by-laws as amended so that all the membership may have this information. With this issue Frances Kennedy relinquishes the editorship of the Oklahoma Librarian. She has the thanks and appreciation of everyone in the association for her fine contribution. Taking over as editor is Virginia Owens, trained in publication work, interested and well qualified to continue the publication of which the association is proud. The July issue will carry reports of our meeting in March. The October issue will be the Golden Anniversary issue.

The Golden Anniversary meeting of the association, with Irma Tomberlin as Program Chairman, promises to be another outstanding meeting. Information about the program is in this issue. Elizabeth Cooper, Chairman of the Local Arrangements Committee, and her committee members are at work with details of the meeting. We are mindful of our history of fifty years but many of us have been looking more towards the next five years of library development in the state. These years hold the promise of a historic turning point for complete library service in Oklahoma. To accomplish this goal, appropriations for library service in Oklahoma in this legislature are extremely important. By the time this is published we hope the emergency appropriation for state funds to match the basic federal allotment will have passed. This initial allotment will be used for strengthening the State Library Agency. Under the direction of Ralph Hudson and with the assistance of the whole OLA membership, guided by the Legislative Committee, Allie Beth Martin, Chairman, we will seek the larger biennial appropriation. With these funds the Oklahoma Library Plan will go into action so that eventually any Oklahoman may read a good book.

“OPERATION LIBRARY”

In late summer, 1955, Mrs. Allie Beth Martin, President of the Oklahoma Library Association, wrote to the President of the Oklahoma Junior Chamber of Commerce “... regarding the library situation in Oklahoma and the possibility that the Junior Chamber of Commerce might help to alert the citizens of the state to the needs in this area. The interest and help of such groups as yours will be vital in solving our problems. Any help which you may be able to give will be of importance.” This was written by Mrs. Martin in an effort to obtain support in advancing the cause of libraries in Oklahoma. At the time that her letter was written circumstances were not favorable, and the desired support was not forthcoming. This is merely to point out that had the time been ripe for action, “Operation Library” might well have originated in Oklahoma. However, such was not the case and the honor for developing what may become the most important contribution to public libraries in our history will have to rest with our neighboring state of Arkansas.

“Operation Library” had its beginnings in West Memphis, Arkansas, a little more than a year ago, when the librarian called upon the local Jaycees to help iron out some local problems. The Jaycees of West Memphis not only helped solve the problems, but they found an area where their services were effective and much needed. In due time the West Memphis Jaycees reported the results of their local project to the Arkansas Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the cause of public libraries in Arkansas became the cause of the Arkansas Jaycees. In short order, about nine months to be exact, one hundred Jaycee Clubs in Arkansas were competing with each other to see which club could do the most for the libraries in their respective communities. In still shorter order, the news spread in library circles across the nation. The Arkansas Jaycees were swamped with requests for information on their project. They soon learned that they had a lion by the tail. And to make the tale shorter, the Arkansas Jaycees called upon their national organization for help. The project was considered and adopted as a national program of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce in July, 1956, at Tulsa, Oklahoma.

It is difficult for anyone not familiar with the Junior Chamber of Commerce fully to appreciate, at this time, just what this means and will mean to the public libraries of America. One purpose of this article is to acquaint librarians with the Jaycee organization, and to point out the good that can result from such a program.

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce is an organization of almost 300,000 “young men of action” between the ages of 21 and 35. There are more than 2,750 local Jaycee clubs in the United States. Their only purpose for being is to “make a better community in which to live and to provide leadership training” for its members. The Jaycees maintain their national headquarters in Tulsa, Oklahoma. This headquarters is responsible for the continuity of the organization by providing information and service to the local chapters. The Headquarters staff consists of 50 full time paid employees, all automatically retired (as are all members) upon reaching their 36th birthday. More than half a million dollars are dispersed each year in the operation of this office. Eventually this office and local Jaycees will apply through the local Jaycee clubs on behalf of “Operation Library” more than 500 man hours per month, 800,000 printed impressions per month, and about 65,000 pieces of mail per month. We hope that you now have some idea of what will soon become an active effort on behalf of one public library.

In the Junior Chamber of Commerce any program begins with the general membership. A given project, tried and proven, expands from the local chapter to the state level, and from the state level, with the blessings of a National Board of Directors, a project becomes National. “Operation Library” passed all of these hurdles during the past year. On a national level the program is less than six months old. Until Jaycees nation-wide know about a project, it can’t become great. To know about a project requires having the right information. The Jaycees will get that information and follow it up with action if and where action is needed to get results.

At this writing, Mr. Cecil Edmonds, National Jaycee Chairman for “Operation Library,” is busy organizing a State Committee in every state. Latest reports reveal that already some twelve states have set up committees, and another ten to twelve states are in the process of doing so. The Oklahoma Junior Chamber of Commerce was the first state-wide organization to set up an “Operation Library” Committee. At this time seven Jaycee clubs in Oklahoma have set up local committees. Before too much longer, we can expect to find about fifty local Jaycee Committees active with “Operation Library” projects within the cities and towns of Oklahoma.

The program is a simple one. Jaycee committees will be asked to confer with local librarians and library boards to find areas wherein their group can be of assistance. These Jaycees, as they always are, will be free to apply their own imagination to evolve programs suitable for their own communities. The local librarian must be ready to show them where they can go to work and what needs to be done. With the Jaycees there are not apt to be any limitations. They may be willing to do anything from scrubbing the floor, painting the walls, or building a new library. Fantastic? Look at some of their other work in your community for evidence of their ability to get a job done and done well.

Librarians who have heard of “Operation Library” are elated at the prospects of what it can mean. Cooperation will be the keynote.

Naturally it will take time for such a program as we have outlined above to gain momentum. The programming on a national level, and in Oklahoma, is proceeding at a rapid pace. And yet, initial Jaycee information will not get in the mail until around the first of the year. Efforts up to this time have been limited to individual correspondence and interviews. And those results which are cited have been astonishingly successful to those Jaycees and librarians who have advanced and are advancing the project.

It is our feeling, and we believe that most librarians will agree, that never before has such an organized group offered its services to the public libraries of America. True, there have been isolated instances of national groups interesting themselves for a while in library problems, and little has come from most of the effort. Jaycees like nothing better than to get hold of an impossible project, and it is entirely within the realm of possibility that once started, they will not relax their efforts until a good library is available in every community that can afford one.

—Editor’s note: As a postscript to Mr. Winn’s article, he wrote the following in a letter to the editor: “One thing occurs to me: I have not answered the question, ‘What can I do to get the Jaycees busy?’ I feel sure that all librarians could write or contact their local Jaycees, let them know that you are aware of their project, and express appreciation to them for undertaking it. This project has had an enthusiastic reception in Arkansas, and it will be the same in Oklahoma and throughout the United States just as soon as we can get a project or two underway; then the clubs will be competing for awards in their various activities.”

Mark Your Calendars

A workshop for library trustees to be sponsored by the Oklahoma State Library is set tentatively for April 25-26, and will probably be held on the O.U. north campus. Plan to attend and bring your trustees. Much interest in a stronger program for library trustees was expressed by trustees attending the Southwestern Library Association meeting held last October in Oklahoma City. See that your trustees have this opportunity to participate. For more information, contact the State Library Extension Division.

Implementing the Library Services Act

The National Outlook

Librarians and all citizens interested in extending library services to 27,000,000 Americans in rural areas now totally lacking libraries are urged by the American Library Association to seek Congressional action for a full appropriation to implement the Library Services Act which was passed by the last Congress.

Under the Act, $7,500,000 of federal funds were authorized each year for five years to be matched by state funds for bringing library services to rural populations. However, only $2,050,000 was actually appropriated for the first fiscal year, July 1, 1956 to June 30, 1957.

Mrs. Lolota D. Fyan, State Librarian of Michigan, and Chairman of the ALA Coordinating Committee for the Library Services Act, said:

"It has been decided to seek the full appropriation for the second year of operation of the Act—fiscal 1958 rather than press for the balance of the full appropriation for 1956-57. We will later seek the additional amount which can be spent to greater advantage when the program gets under way in the various states. The appropriation came so late in the fiscal year of the states that in most instances state funds were already expended in other extension work, and were not available for matching the federal monies.

"Therefore, we urge all citizens—particularly librarians, trustees, and friends of libraries—to ask their Senators and Representatives to vote for the full appropriation under the Library Services Act."

Four regional conferences for the heads of state library extension agencies has been held in Washington, D.C., Nashville, Tenn., Sacramento, Calif., and Kansas City, Mo. The conferences were called by the U.S. Commissioner of Education and presided over by Ralph M. Dunbar, Chief, Services to Libraries Branch, Office of Education, who is Director of the Library Services Act program.

At the regional conferences, the librarians were given an opportunity to discuss fully the tentative documents prepared by the U.S. Office of Education and to offer suggestions before these documents became effective. The documents were: "Regulations," "Guide for Submitting State Plan," and "Forms for Use in Submitting State Plan."

Among questions raised by the state library extension agency people were whether for matching purposes the law could be interpreted that the state could be considered as a whole rather than as part of a series of separate geographical areas. Dunbar announced that the Office of the General Counsel determined the state could be considered as a whole.

Other problems concerned what constitutes supervision of local agencies by the state library agency. The law specifically requires that the state agency administer the plan itself or else supervise the administration of it by the local agency. In many sections, local autonomy is quite strong. As the regulation now stands, supervision is defined as "guidance with authority necessary to assure the observance of policies and methods of administration adopted by the state agency."

Under the Act, a basic grant of $40,000 is made to each state; the remainder of the appropriation is divided on the basis of the rural population. The federal funds must be matched with state and/or local funds on a ratio based on the per capita income of the state compared to the national per capita income. In other words, the states with high per capita incomes must pay more for the federal money than those with low per capita incomes.

The Oklahoma Outlook

The $2,050,000 already appropriated for the first fiscal year July 1, 1956 to June 30, 1957 provides only for the basic allotment of $40,000 for each state. To secure this amount the matching funds for Oklahoma amount to $27,579 of state and/or local funds. If this is secured through the emergency appropriation act early in the session of the Oklahoma State Legislature, a total of $67,579 will be available for use by June 30, 1957. During this initial period the money will be used to strengthen the state library agency by employing additional field workers and supervisors, buying bookmobiles to promote library service in rural areas and to buy books. The time also will permit additional planning and laying the ground work for library service through multi-county libraries.

SWLA Conference Report

The Biltmore Hotel in Oklahoma City was the headquarters for the sixteenth biennial conference of the Southwestern Library Association, October 10-12, 1956. "The Education of a Librarian" was the conference theme. The programs for three of the general sections were built around this theme with a symposium on "Education for Librarianship—Perspective" and two panels on "Current Library Education, with Emphasis on the Southwest" and "Education for Librarianship—Prospects and Possibilities." Mr. Rudolph H. Gjelsness, Director, Department of Library Science, University of Michigan, was a special guest and was available for consultation during the discussion period of each session. American Library Association President Ralph R. Shaw spoke at the last general session on "Scientific Management in the Library."

Further carrying out the convention theme twenty-eight library school recruits coming from all of the six states represented in the Southwestern Library Association were official guests. At a breakfast seminar in their honor, these students were given an opportunity to question the librarians present on subjects of their own choosing.

Convention-goers did not lack for libraries to visit. In addition to the Oklahoma City Libraries, the Oklahoma State Library, and the Oklahoma City University Library, there were twelve special libraries in Oklahoma City. Also many college and university librarians found time to visit the University of Oklahoma Library at Norman and the Oklahoma A & M College Library at Stillwater.

Miss Dorothy Amann, one of the founders of the Southwestern Library Association was a special guest at the conference. Also present was Dra. Maria Teresa Chavez of Mexico City, president of the newly formed Association Mexicana de Bibliotecarios.

The next biennial conference will be held in Galveston, Texas, October 23-25, 1958.

President—Mrs. Elsa S. Thompson, Librarian, Albuquerque Public Library, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

First Vice-President and President Elect—Dr. Arthur McAnally, Librarian, University of Oklahoma, Norman, Oklahoma.

Second Vice-President—Miss Gertrude James, Supervisor Elementary School Libraries, Phoenix, Arizona.

Secretary—Miss Esther Stallman, University of Texas Library School, Austin, Texas.

Treasurer—Miss Lucille Slater, Union County Library, El Dorado, Arkansas.

Anna Davis, Secretary.

Virginia Owens Named As Librarian Editor

Miss Virginia Owens becomes editor of the Oklahoma Librarian with the April 1957 issue. Miss Owens has been a member of the staff of the Oklahoma City Libraries since 1947, with the exception of the year 1955-1956 when she attended the University of Illinois. Prior to 1955 she was Assistant to the Director, and since her return to Oklahoma City Libraries, she has been appointed Library Services Coordinator. Miss Owens received her B.A. degree at Oklahoma City University, and M.S. in L.S. at the University of Illinois. Part of her library courses were taken at the University of Oklahoma.

A "nose for news" and a flair for writing characterize the new editor. Her responsibilities as assistant to the Director of the Oklahoma City Libraries included both personnel work and public relations. This experience, together with a term as editorial assistant of the Oklahoma State Medical Journal, make her appointment as editor of the Oklahoma Librarian an especially fortunate one. Good luck, Virginia. It's time consuming, but fun!

OKLAHOMA LIBRARIAN
ALA Midwinter Meeting Coming Soon

The annual Midwinter Meeting of the American Library Association is expected to bring 1,400 librarians from all sections of the country to the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago, January 29 to February 2 for the first meeting to be held under ALA reorganization—officially effective January 1, 1957.

At this meeting, the ALA Council will be operating for the first time with the broader powers and responsibilities brought about by the reorganization. ALA officers planned the two Council meetings—Wednesday (Jan. 30) afternoon and Thursday (Jan. 31) evening—to reflect the changes under which Council now serves to a greater degree than heretofore as the ALA policy-making body. Therefore, its agenda is wholly composed of reports and recommendations involving policy considerations which Council will decide, such as issues involved in a placement service; Council-Executive Board relationships, responsibilities and procedures; and the proposed ALA-Canadian Library Association Joint Conference. ALA President Ralph R. Shaw will preside at Council meetings and will report on matters of consequence. A Membership Meeting on Thursday (Jan. 31) morning will serve to bring informational reports—including one on the Association’s finances—to the meeting.

There will be business meetings of all thirteen ALA Divisions—including both existing Divisions and those which will come into existence on January 1. At these meetings, further steps will be taken in perfecting divisional organization and refining statements of fields of interest, some of which may be brought to Council for decision.

ALA Executive Secretary David H. Clift points out that 1957 membership notices have been mailed from Headquarters together with information generally describing the divisions—six by type of library and seven by type of activity. Members have a choice of two divisions—one of each type—as a prerequisite of basic dues and may join additional divisions by adding $2 for each. Since membership lists for the new divisions will be compiled from the membership renewals which are returned, Clift urged that members make returns as early as possible.

During Midwinter Meeting, and just prior to it, there will be meetings of the Executive Board, the Program Evaluation and Budget Committee, and the Committee on Organization.

The Federal Relations Committee will meet on Tuesday (Jan. 29) afternoon for discussion of the Library Services Act and other Federal legislation. The Joint Committee on Library Work as a Career will meet on Wednesday evening. Cooperation with “Operation Library,” project of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be discussed at a meeting of the Public Libraries Division on Wednesday evening. At an open meeting Tuesday morning, sponsored by the Public Documents Committee, there will be discussion of the question of depository libraries. The Committee will be working closely with a Congressional Committee in a study of the depository library situation.

Three affiliated organizations will hold meetings: the Association of American Library Schools and the Association of Research Libraries will meet on Monday (Jan. 28) at the University of Chicago; the American Theological Library Association’s Executive Committee will meet Friday and Saturday (Feb. 1 and 2) at McCormick Theological Seminary.

India Librarian Visits

The University of Oklahoma has been chosen as one of eleven university libraries in the country to have a library visitor from India for three months, beginning November 1, 1956. The selection was made by the International Relations Committee of ALA, and was approved by the U.S. Department of State. These librarians are guests of the United States.

Mr. Masood Yazdani, Librarian of Osmania University in Hyderabad, is the visitor at the O.U. Library. He has a Certificate of Training from the London School of Librarianship, a B.A. degree from Aligarh University, and a diploma from the Madras Library School. Mr. Yazdani is interested especially in library buildings, as architects are already preparing preliminary drawings for a proposed new library building for Osmania University.

1957 OLA Membership Dues Now Payable

Oklahoma Library Association dues of $2.00 for the 1957 membership year are now payable to Mrs. Ida Self, Treasurer, Oklahoma Library Association, Norman Junior High School Library, Norman, Oklahoma. Joining or renewing membership in the association is easy—all that is necessary is the payment of dues to the treasurer who keeps the membership rolls.

Members for 1956 and new members for 1957 will receive ballots by mail to vote for the new officers and will have all the privileges of membership, including the Oklahoma Librarian until the new membership list is published in the July Oklahoma Librarian.

Renewing membership by mail is desirable from the association's standpoint. The officers have a better picture of the financial situation of the association earlier and can budget accordingly. Support for the Oklahoma Librarian over and above advertising revenue is in hand sooner. Many librarians plan to renew their membership at the annual meeting and an opportunity to do so will be given at the Oklahoma City meeting, but experience has shown that some can not attend the meeting at the time it is held and others do not find it convenient to make payment of dues during a busy meeting. As a result each year some who have been OLA members for years are members in spirit only and not in fact.

Membership for 1956 was the highest in association history. Membership for the 1957 anniversary year promises to be higher still. Mrs. Richard Horton, El Reno Public Library, is the new Chairman of the Membership Committee.

Midwest City Librarian Is Honored by B&PW

In observing National Business Women's week, September 23-29, the Midwest City Business and Professional Women's Club named Mrs. John Crumpler, local librarian, as the "Business Woman of the Year."

At the club's September dinner meeting, Mrs. Crumpler was presented as the business woman who had contributed more to the community in the way of community service than any other woman in the area. The citation read: "She has organized and administered the library for the benefit of the community, serving not only as the custodian of books but as a reading counselor in a carefully planned guidance program."

The library, less than two years old, has nearly 4000 patrons. Some of the outstanding activities are: Travel programs for air force families; story hours for primary and elementary groups; weekly column in Midwest City Leader; letters to newcomers inviting them to visit the library; reference service by telephone and speakers' directory. Three hundred children were enrolled in the summer reading program.

Laverne Citizens Build New Public Library

Public-spirited citizens of Laverne, prodded by the Delphian Study Club, worked together to make possible the new library building which opened its doors last August. The building, 24 by 24 feet in size, is of ultramodern design and constructed of expanded shale with brick and redwood front. It was designed by Bob Wilson, then a Laverne High School graduate attending building and construction school at Oklahoma A & M College. Other citizens of Laverne contributed donations for materials and helped provide the labor needed in the construction and in moving the collection of books to the new quarters.

The Laverne Library has been operated by members of the Delphian Study Club since 1937, hitherto in makeshift rooms. It began as a collection of 40 books, and now numbers 2,000 volumes. There are some 1800 registered borrowers. A moratorium on long past due books was a feature of the opening celebrations, which also included a library openhouse.

The O. B. U. Library sponsored an all-time beauty queen contest in connection with the University’s 1956 Homecoming. The Library run of college annuals provided a gallery of beauty queen portraits from the earliest days of the school. Mrs. Robert Sager, nee Becky Queen, class of 1955, now of Stillwater, was judged the all-time beauty queen.

Again in 1956 the major cost of printing and mailing the Oklahoma Librarian was met through the sale of advertising space. Shown below is an itemized account of the cost of publishing each issue and the amount of advertising sold:

Cost per member (350 members) $1.21

Advertising revenue decreased $108.44 from the 1955 total of $814.17 resulting in an increased drain on membership dues. During the year two firms doubled their purchase of advertising space, one new regular advertiser was added and several others continued to purchase the same space they have had in the past.

Looking ahead to 1957 it is hoped that advertising revenue can be increased. Association members can help by purchasing supplies and equipment from firms advertising in the Oklahoma Librarian, and by thanking them personally for their continued interest in the Oklahoma Library Association.

ALA Publishes Guide To Library Cooperation

The Public Libraries Division of the American Library Association announces publication of The PLD Reporter, No. 5, titled "Cooperative Practices Among Public Libraries."

Available now from the ALA Publishing Department ($2.25; or $1.85 on series order) the 70-page publication was prepared with the cooperation of the PLD Library Extension Section under the chairmanship of Verna Nistendirk, Florida State Library, Tallahassee, Florida. The editor is Rezia Gaunt, formerly of the Gary (Ind.) Public Library.

Miss Nistendirk said:

"This practical guide was inspired by the revised standards for public libraries, 'Public Library Service' which set forth as its 'most important single recommendation' the cooperative approach on the part of libraries. In this PLD Reporter are detailed descriptions of cooperation in action and we believe every public librarian should study them in the light of the new standards and his own library situation."

Included are 27 narrative examples of 12 different kinds of library cooperation, giving details of actual library programs which cover reciprocal borrowers' privileges, interlibrary loans, cooperative book evaluation and selection plans, centralized purchasing of books and supplies, cooperative purchase and use of books and supplies, union catalogs, centralized cataloging, rotation and exchange of materials, cooperative consultant service, planned referrals, cooperative publicity, and duplication of catalog cards.

In addition, there is a Directory of Cooperative Practices in Libraries; and a Bibliography with annotations prepared by Rose Vainstein, Head, Extension Department, Gary (Ind.) Public Library.

Introducing the narratives are special articles by Dr. Robert D. Leigh, Dean, School of Library Service, Columbia University; Gretchen Knief Schenk, Summerdale, Ala.; Carol Trimble, formerly Head Librarian, Yakima, Wash.; Florence E. Harsh, Chief of Advisory Service, New York State Regional Library Service Center, Watertown, N.Y.; and Mrs. Lura G. Currier, Director, Mississippi Library Commission, Jackson, Miss.
Library Services Act

If Congress appropriates the full amount for the second year of operation of the Library Services Act, federal funds available for Oklahoma would be $146,811 for the fiscal year. To secure this amount Oklahoma must have matching funds of $92,625. Since the Oklahoma legislature meets every two years and appropriations are for the biennium, the same amount of state and/or local funds must be sought for the third year of the act. Therefore the state agency, with the assistance of the Oklahoma Library Association members, the Legislative Committee and friends of libraries, will seek a biennial appropriation of $185,250 as a part of the General Revenue and Appropriation Bill which is passed late in the session of the legislature.

All of this will provide $346,451 for library service in rural areas for the next two and one-half years. In the second and third year of operation the money will be used in conjunction with local funds to provide library service through multi-county libraries. Regions able to establish multi-county libraries will operate under the supervision of the state agency. In some areas which have had little or no library service at all, the multi-county library may be administered by the state library agency direct.

Chicago Conference Will Discuss Library Future

The twenty-second Annual Conference of the University of Chicago Graduate Library School will be held from June 19-21, 1957, and will deal with the subject, "New Directions in Public Library Developments." Outstanding authorities in the field of public administration, public finance, urban development and related fields will join distinguished speakers in the field of librarianship to discuss emerging problems in public librarianship.

It is especially appropriate that the Conference be devoted to problems facing the public library at this particular time. Special attention will be paid to implications of the new standards for public library service and the new Library Services Act.

For further information address the Dean of the Graduate Library School, University of Chicago, Chicago 37, Illinois.

Librarians Meet With Adult Education Group

Representatives of 45 different adult education agencies in Oklahoma met at the Oklahoma City Libraries on December 14 in a one-day conference which resulted in the formation of the Oklahoma Adult Education Association. A constitution was adopted for an experimental period of one year and officers elected, headed by Walter Gray, Jr., Chief of the Community Workshop Division of the Oklahoma City Libraries, who will serve as president.

The newly adopted constitution provides that the group will affiliate with the Adult Education Association of the U.S.A., whose president-elect is Mrs. Grace T. Stevenson, also Director of the ALA Office for Adult Education. At the Oklahoma City meeting, assembled state educators expressed a desire to meet with Mrs. Stevenson during her visit next March for the OLA annual meeting.

Purpose of the Oklahoma Adult Education Association, according to the constitution of the new organization, is "to promote and encourage adults to continue their education through participation in formal and informal adult education activities, organizations and courses." Corollary purpose is "the advancement of coordinated and cooperative efforts by those organizations, institutions, and individuals, working directly or indirectly in the field of adult education."

Membership dues for one year are $1.00 and are payable to Wilson D. Steen, Treasurer, in care of the Extension Division of the University of Oklahoma.
