

Welcome to the OPS-ATPO Virtual Symposium. We are pleased to offer this online, on-demand series of courses to the ophthalmic community. This meeting represents several firsts for our organizations. This is the first time that ATPO and the OPS are collaborating together for an educational program. We hope that our members and others from the ophthalmic community enjoy the lectures from both organizations. This symposium is also the first time either of our organizations are hosting a meeting virtually. We appreciate the ability to use technology to provide educational content in a safe manner during the pandemic. A big THANK YOU to our speakers for working with us to record their lectures!

This is the first time we have been able to offer flexible lecture packages, allowing attendees to select between 3, 4, 5 or all 6 lectures. We hope that you are able to take advantage of the accessibility that having access to the recorded content over a two week period provides. While some of you may choose to watch the content all in one sitting, we suspect that many of you will spread it out over multiple days; either method is certainly fine! Just be sure to view everything by August 31, 2020.

Lastly, this is the first program to take place without a single handshake. We are saddened that we are missing the opportunity to meet new colleagues and catch up with old friends. However, we are fortunate that the planning team was able to work together virtually for several months to provide this opportunity to learn and grow for our community.

And for a little housekeeping: We'd like to remind you that in order to earn your OPS or CME credits, you'll need to complete the survey after watching each lecture.

Please feel free to reach out to us with any questions.
