Providence Women's Clinic News

Providence Women's Clinic Nurses and Providers,

Your ONA Bargaining Team election closed last night at 11:45 p.m. Voter turnout was strong, and the following nurses, midwives, and physicians were elected to represent you at the bargaining table:

- Charlie Saltalamacchia, MD
- Christina Malango, RN
- Heather Wilson, CNM
- Jazmyne Hutchinson, RN
- Jessica Newgard, CNM
- Mandeep Kingra, MD

Strong contracts cannot be won without tenacious, thoughtful, and articulate members fighting at the bargaining table. We are lucky to have these six members who embody those qualities willing to take up this work!

Equally important work happens away from the bargaining table. The Contract Action Team (CAT) will help draft, review, and improve bargaining proposals. They will keep in close communication with all represented PWC nurses and providers to provide ongoing feedback to the bargaining team as negotiations progress, ensuring that our first contract reflects the interests and priorities of us all. The CAT will plan and execute a campaign around our negotiations that will increase community, political, and labor ally awareness and support for our negotiations. They will make sure that the strength of our full union and community is felt in these negotiations. If you haven't yet stepped up to serve on the CAT, consider doing so!
Please look for our bargaining survey within the next week. If you know of a colleague who is not receiving communications, ask them to provide their contact info to ONA at oregonrn.org/update so that they do not miss important information.

If you have any questions, please contact your ONA labor representative, Ashley Bromley at Bromley@OregonRN.org.
