On Thursday, Nov. 14 at 7:30 a.m., ONA met with Julie Smith and David Monego from Providence to discuss our recent grievance filed regarding the need to receive adequate breaks. In this meeting, ONA nurses explained the issues resulting from not receiving their breaks, as well as the impacts they have on patient care and safety.

When discussing how the issue impacts the standard of care nurses are able to provide without having breaks, Allyson Becker brought up the quality of care she would give her mother, and questioned whether the care nurses are able to provide their patients would meet that criteria. “I want to be up to that standard for all my patients,” Becker said. She also said that she felt “it’s a matter of time until someone gets hurt in a serious manner.”

Genie Espenel said, “Missing breaks is risky for Providence, risky for us and risky for patients.” Regarding patient safety, Brian Marshall said, “One of the best safety devices on the floor is a safe nurse.”

Management listened to nurses’ concerns and committed to giving a response by next Wednesday. We will share updates on the issue as ONA continues to meet with Providence to work together and solve this issue.

Oregon voters will face a decision on whether or not to protect health care for more than 350,000 children, adults with disabilities, seniors, and low-income families in a special election Jan. 23, 2018.

Measure 101 asks voters to uphold the bipartisan Oregon Healthcare Protections Bill which the legislature passed in the 2017 legislative session. Nurses, hospitals, insurers, Democrats and Republicans all supported the bill in order to fund health care and lower premiums for more than half a million Oregonians.

Voting YES on Measure 101 means protecting health care for Oregonians who otherwise couldn’t afford care and are too often forced to go to the emergency room when they are sick. If the measure fails, thousands of our most vulnerable patients will be in jeopardy of losing their health care.

It is critical we stand together to protect Oregon families by supporting Measure 101 in the Jan. 23 special election.
