CLP Selection Guidelines—Children’s Apps

1. If available, reviews or information from professional journals are preferred.

2. Reviews and recommendations from reputable sites are also acceptable. Such sites should offer clear information about the credentials and/or experience of the individual reviewing the apps and disclose any and all affiliations.

3. Both the cost and the value of the app should be considered. Is the price reasonable for the features included? Does the app provide unique content or functionality?

4. Factors related to use that should be evaluated include the level of interactivity, ease of use and flexibility.

5. Availability—ease of purchase/acquisition—should also be considered.
