Leaders in Biomedical Science Joining Forces

AAP, ASCI, and APSA join forces each April to host the world’s largest meeting for physician scientists. Together, the three professional societies represent physician scientists across the full career spectrum: from physician scientist trainees to world-renown clinical and basic science investigators.

The Association of American Physicians
Founded in 1885, the AAP has more than 2,700 elected members with shared goals that include the pursuit of medical knowledge, and the advancement through experimentation and discovery of basic and clinical science and their application to clinical medicine.

The American Society for Clinical Investigation
Founded in 1908, the ASCI has more than 3,000 elected physician scientist members. The ASCI seeks to support the scientific efforts, educational needs, and clinical aspirations of physician scientists to improve human health.

American Physician Scientists Association
Founded in 2003, APSA is the largest peer support community for physician scientist trainees, representing more than 1,700 members. APSA strives to be the student physician scientists’ leading voice for improving educational opportunities, advancing patient-oriented research, and advocating for the future of science and medicine.

RESIDENCY LUNCHEON

The Residency Luncheon is an opportunity to gather current MD/DO-PhD and MD/DO trainees with directors and administrators of research-track residency programs. In 2024, we had nearly 300 trainees attend the program. The APSA Joint Meeting (JM) is the premiere conference to recruit high achieving research-focused trainees.

NUMBER OF RESIDENCY LUNCHEON PROGRAMS REPRESENTED

NEW!

Starting in 2025, we will be piloting the addition of MD/DO-PhD program tabling opportunities. Given our growing pool of pre-medical student attendees, we see great benefit in catering to their training stage and needs. These tables will be available and run concurrently with the Residency Luncheon session.

Note: These cannot be combined for an additional discount with the other packages.

RESIDENCY LUNCHEON

This option is made available to program directors of residency, fellowship, or MD/PhD programs. Please note each package is for a single program, not institution, except for Platinum Deluxe. Approximately 500 of > 1,100 Joint Meeting (JM) attendees are affiliated with APSA.
