Call for Student Leaders in Psychology!

Each year, your local Psi Chi chapter offers unique student officer positions. Would you like to develop resumé-worthy skills and relationships with psychology advisors and other officers? See these 17 common officer roles. Then, email your local advisor or officer team to share your interest in becoming a chapter leader during the 2021–22 school year.

- How to Include Psi Chi Leadership Experience on Your Resumé/CV
- Five Tips for Psi Chi Officers
- New Psi Chi Volunteer/Service Webpage
Show us your favorite Psi Chi combo! Purchase your gear through our online store and remember to tag us on Instagram and Twitter: @PsiChiHonor.

ADVERTISEMENTS

FEATURED CONTENT

How to Talk About Disabilities, With Dr. Rhoda Olkin
Which microaggressions occur most often and what can be done to reduce these uncomfortable situations? Listen free wherever you go for podcasts. Made possible through a partnership with CSPP Alliant International University.

What Your Stuff Says About You
Does your room remind people more of Marie Kondo or Homer Simpson? In Eye on Psi Chi magazine, Dr. Samuel Gosling shares the science of snooping and what your environment can teach others about you.

LATEST NEWS

NICE CROWD Research Proposals
Psi Chi is actively seeking research proposals from students and faculty for our guided, cross-cultural 2021–22 NICE: Crowd Research Project. Proposals are due July 31, and research contributors are also wanted.
Let’s Replicate Hajak and Foti (2008)
#EEGManyLabs welcomes beginner and experienced researchers in EEG & Startle laboratories. Coauthor a Registered Report for Cortex and replicate the 2008 study, “Errors Are Aversive: Defensive Motivation and the Error-Related Negativity.” Read more.

Join Us Virtually at APA 2021
Psi Chi Distinguished Lecturer Dr. June Gruber will discuss strategies to close the gender gap in psychology during COVID-19. Learn to enact enduring change!

2020–21 Membership Drive Recipients Announced
Congratulations to the six winning chapters. We greatly appreciate all chapters that inducted members in both fall 2020 and spring 2021.

ADVERTISEMENTS

It’s Time to Start Your Grad School Search
APA’s Graduate Study in Psychology can help you find the graduate psychology program that best meets your training and career goals. Search and compare over 1,600 programs at more than 500 schools in the U.S. and Canada. Start your search.

APA Seeks Student Papers
The American Psychological Association is looking for student papers that might be shown as excellent examples of student work in Academic Writer, APA’s complete digital tool for teaching and learning effective writing. Submissions should be high-quality papers written for an undergraduate course. Select this link to find more details and to submit your paper for consideration.