DATE: April 19
TO: Students and Officers
SUBJECT: Getting Where You Want to Go in Psychology

Discover how to use your undergraduate experience to your best advantage. Join Drs. Jane Halonen and Dana Dunn for a virtual event about making smart choices when selecting your priorities. May 3 at 3 p.m. EST. Sponsored by APA Style. Share this flyer. Spaces are limited, so register today.

Excited about the big event? While we wait, go ahead and explore these three resources that can help you increase your knowledge and abilities to achieve meaningful careers in psychology.

- Career Center Insights—Review job outlook, wages, and skills needed for numerous fields. New openings are posted often.
- Determining Your Major and Career—Find out if your education should prepare you for a career. Or is it the other way around?
- Effective Cover Letters and Resumés—See Dr. Spencer’s tips for making your application materials match potential employers’ needs.
SUBMIT YOUR QUESTIONS

Ask Us Anything About Psi Chi!
What would you like to know about our Professional Organization? Submit your questions HERE by April 26. We’ll group questions together and try to answer the most popular ones in time for the next monthly digest email.

All questions will be kept anonymous, so don’t be afraid to ask whatever comes to mind. For example, if someone hadn’t asked “How Is ‘Psi Chi’ Pronounced?” we might have never published this short explanation—one of our blog’s most popular articles!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

- PsychEverywhere Podcast is now on YouTube.
- The next #PsiChiR Contest starts May 1.
- Psi Chi Journal seeks diverse submissions.

MARK YOUR CALENDAR

- MPA Convention—April 21–23
- WPA Convention—April 27–May 1
- Undergraduate Research Grants—May 1
- Graduate Research Grants—May 1
- Unrestricted Travel Grants—May 5
- Model Chapter Awards—May 15
- APS Convention—May 26–26
Prepare early this year for graduation. Grab your regalia today through the online store. Order at least 10 business days in advance to ensure on-time delivery of regalia items for your special day.