45th Annual International SPR Conference, Copenhagen, Denmark June 25-28, 2014 Jeanne Watson

The members of the Conference Program Planning Committee would like to thank all of you who submitted papers, posters, discussion groups, and panels for the International SPR conference to be held in Copenhagen, June 25-28 2014. Thanks to your enthusiasm and efforts, we have a wonderful program that reflects the depth and breadth of scholarship for which members of SPR are known and of which they may be very proud. We received 740 proposals and over 800 people have indicated an intention to attend, with representation from 34 countries across 6 continents, including North and South America, Europe, Africa, Asia, and Australia.

The conference theme "Facilitating Change: Learning from the Past, Looking to the Future" asked for presenters to draw on the rich history of research and scholarship in psychotherapy process and outcome, build on the lessons learned to inform current theoretical issues and problems facing the field, and point to future directions for research and practice. It has generated submissions that present research on psychotherapy processes from multiple perspectives and from psychotherapy researchers and clinicians from diverse theoretical orientations, modalities, methodologies, and cultures. We anticipate that it will stimulate lively discussion among colleagues from around the world as well as across the generations of psychotherapy researchers.

Structure

The conference will begin Wednesday June 25, 2014 at 9 am with 16 pre-conference workshops at the conference venue, the University of Copenhagen's City Campus. Later that day at 6pm there will be the formal opening of the conference with the Presidential Address and awards ceremony. This will be followed by a welcome reception under the stars.

Plenary sessions

2 plenary sessions are scheduled: One on Thursday morning with 15-20 past presidents; and a second one during the Friday lunch hour when David Orlinsky will give a talk entitled Presents from Past to Future: "Stayin' Alive at SPR".

An additional 4 semi-plenary sessions are scheduled for Saturday morning. The topics include: therapist development, the therapeutic alliance, family therapy, and research on the efficacy of different psychotherapy approaches. .

There are 13 parallel tracks categorized broadly by themes including treatment approaches and issues, process and outcome, therapist and client factors, method and measurement, supervision and training, and research on child, family, and couples therapy. There are four presentation formats including 130 panel sessions, 15 structured discussions, 22 brief paper sessions, and 2 poster sessions. To view the preliminary program visit: http://spr2014.com/docs/spr2014\_prelim\_program.pdf

To become acquainted with SPR and its membership, participants are encouraged to attend the Chapter meetings after lunch on Thursday as well as the General Membership lunch on Friday. The Saturday lunch period will be given over to a number of other networking opportunities including a mentoring group for students, networking groups for clinicians and early career scholars, and the General Interest Group Meetings for SPRISTAD, Culture, and CaFTR respectively. Attending these lunches and meetings is an important way for members of the SPR community to reconnect with friends and colleagues and make new connections that sustain the community and each one of us as researchers and scholars. We look forward to connecting with you at these meetings. The conference will end Saturday evening with a banquet at Toldboden, the old customs house near the harbour, where participants will be able to dine, drink, and dance into the evening while continuing to forge new and growing alliances with members of the SPR community.

Registration

Registration for the conference is at the conference website: <http://www.spr2014.com/registration.html>.

Early bird rates are valid until April 20, 2014.

Copenhagen promises to provide a wonderful backdrop for the conference with its rich history, interesting architecture, and award winning design. It has a relaxed and fun ambiance. Participants will be able to cycle back and forth to the conference venue, stroll the paths along the canals, explore historic districts, and trace Soren Kierkegaard's footsteps down cobbled lanes, stopping along the way to share coffee, pastries, and new ideas with friends and colleagues.

We would like to thank the Program Committee, including Stig Poulsen our local host, and his colleagues Susanne Lunn, Susanne Harder, Sarah Daniel, and Jan Nielsen. They have been working tirelessly to make the conference a success and your visit to the city memorable. They have provided information on the history of the city and important sites for you to visit. Be sure to read their newsletters and suggestions on how to enjoy the city and make the most of your time during the conference. The newsletters are posted on the website.

See you in Copenhagen,

Jeanne Watson

SPR Program Chair and the members of the Program Planning Committee

Program Planning Committee: Jeanne Watson (Chair), Stig Poulsen (Local Host), Robert Elliott, Michael Constantino, Beatriz Gomez, Martin Grosse-Holtzforth, Gary Diamond, Alberta Pos, Margot Schofield, Evelyn McMullen, Martina Belz, Robert King, Christopher Perry (General Vice-President), Eunsun Joo, Aarno Laitila, and Stephanie Michelle (Assistant to the Chair)

LOOKING FORWARD TO SEEING YOU ALL IN COPENHAGEN, JUNE 25-28, 2014!

President's Message: Hadas Wiseman

The last months have been an active and fruitful time for the various committees of SPR involving further development and consolidation of past and current initiatives and looking ahead to the future. In this newsletter I will share with you some of these developments alongside the major feature of the March newsletter that consists of the information about the upcoming international conference. The report by Jeanne Watson, our program chair, gives a wonderful prelude to the promising scientific and social experience awaiting us all at the 45th meeting of SPR in Copenhagen. In January 2014 the EC met in Copenhagen and I was fortunate to work with such a great team. We worked hard during the EC meeting and as you can see in the picture we went for a walking tour outdoors in the Danish winter weather, but still we could easily imagine how beautiful the trees and gardens at the venue will be in full bloom when we all arrive in June.

We enjoyed the special hospitality of our very capable and dedicated local host Stig Poulsen and met the committee that is working hard to make Copenhagen a memorable meeting.

An overall view of the outstanding scientific program that was crafted by Jeanne and her team with much attention and creativity can be found in Jeanne's report in the Newsletter. I encourage you to study carefully the Preliminary program posted on the website of the conference so that you can plan how you will navigate between the 13 different tracks during the packed days of the conference. Remember that the pre-conference workshops are included in your fees for the conference and you are invited to choose from 16 cutting-edge clinically-focused and research-focused (and both) enriching workshops. The exciting two planned plenaries, one involving close to twenty past presidents, and the other the co-founder of SPR, respectively, go hand in hand with the conference theme: "Facilitating Change: Learning from the Past, Looking to the Future." Talking about the future of psychotherapy research and of SPR, together with Jeanne Watson our program chair and the EC members, we have made special plans to promote a number of mentoring and networking initiatives during the conference program. After the conference we will solicit your feedback on these initiatives in order to evaluate "what worked and what didn't and for whom?" and how best to advance our mentoring efforts in SPR.

Mentoring and networking initiatives during the Copenhagen conference

Discussion group on Facilitating Mentoring within SPR: Michael Constantino, and I will lead a Discussion group devoted to Developing and supporting psychotherapy researchers in SPR on the first day of the conference (Thursday). We will continue previous efforts to facilitate mentoring possibilities and opportunities within SPR during the annual conferences and between conferences with panelists representing different SPR chapters, ages/career levels and gender. This session will consist of a Question and Answer format with questions provided by the audience ahead of time to be addressed by the panelists. Check the program for more details and stay tuned for the process of sending in your questions.

Invited Attendees at Poster Sessions: We are happy to introduce a mentoring and networking experience during the two Poster sessions (Thursday and Friday evening). In addition to the informal process that has been traditionally part of the Poster sessions, members of the SPR Executive Committee and the scientific program committee will attend the posters of students who have indicated that they would like a visit.

Mentoring and Networking during Lunch. On the last day of the conference on Saturday, a variety of networking and mentoring initiatives are planned. There will be the opportunity for students, clinicians, and early career researchers to gather and meet with other SPR colleagues.

We look forward to meeting you at one of these meetings.

Now to the other developments and news from the desk of the EC and the SPR committees:

Small Research Awards program: This year the Small Research Awards program that was first launched in 2013, continued with vigor and as expected in its second year the number of applications for the awards is on the rise. According to the rules established a maximum of 9 awards, each with a maximum value of $2000, are made annually to SPR members (6 awards to regular and retired members and 3 to student members) across SPR chapters. Andrzej Werbart did an outstanding job in chairing and organizing the work of the committee, which included committee members Björn Philips (EU), Chris Evans (UK), Adela Duarte (LA), Nelson Valdés (LA) and Jamie Bedics (NA). The committee recently completed its work that was unanimously approved by the EC, and announced the following awardees:

Student members

1. Briana Auman (NA). The relationship between working alliance, session depth, and long-term outcomes: a component analysis. Faculty: Catherine Eubanks-Carter, Yeshiva University – Ferkauf Graduate School of Psychology, New York, USA.
2. Dana Atzil-Slonim (EU). The association between emotional experiencing and sudden gains in psychotherapy. Faculty: Eshkol Rafaeli, Psychology Department, Bar-Ilan University, Israel
3. Juan Martin Gómez Penedo (LA). Relationships among interpersonal problems, psychotherapy interventions, and early predictors of outcome. Faculty: Andres J. Roussos, Instituto de Investigación de la Facultad de Psicología, Universidad de Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Regular members

1. Doris Chang (NA). Go with the flow: Taoist Cognitive Therapy for Generalized Anxiety Disorder.
2. Aaron Fisher (NA). Dynamic assessment system for personalized modular interventions.
3. Ueli Kramer (EU). Is change in defense mechanisms specific for psychodynamic psychotherapy? A process-outcome analysis of dialectical behavior group therapy for borderline personality disorder.
4. Dan Pokorny (EU). Tree and dream tree: Validity of relationship patterns with projective objects.
5. Orya Tishby (EU). Mechanism of change in psychotherapy: How do techniques and alliance impact client progress and outcome in short term psychodynamic psychotherapy?
6. Sigal Zilcha-Mano (EU). Alliance and technique as mechanism of change in psychodynamic psychotherapy.

SPR Database of Archival Psychotherapy Research: The committee members of the SPR Database of Archival Psychotherapy Research are: George Silberschatz (Chair) Andres Roussos, Erhard Mergenthaler, Mike Constantino, Viviana Guajardo, James Boswell, Rick Mills, Arjan Berkeljon. The primary aim of this project is to organize the data in such a way that all of the material will be easily accessible to qualified researchers and students (SPR members). Establishing a psychotherapy database that is well delineated, structured, and cataloged will facilitate new research studies that can be carried out with little or no grant support, which would be an enormous benefit for new investigators, student members, and researchers who do not typically have access to research funding. As many of you know the first dataset that has been received to be archived is the very large dataset of the NIMH Collaborative Treatment of Depression study. George reported about the considerable work and effort involved in making the NIMH data accessible and user friendly. A research assistant was hired to convert the data files and to label the variables in a clear way; the NIMH data that were delivered in very large data base files (dBase) and have been converted to SPSS and Microsoft Excel files. Currently the data are online in Dropbox, including manual. A number of issues arise, such as how to credit when accessing the data; server to store data (only available to members of SPR); development of a usage agreement that must be signed before using data. These issues and others will be further discussed when the EC meets in June and it was agreed that this dataset will be used as test case for how to work with other datasets. I would like to thank George and the committee for making progress on this initiative that he and Andres Roussos started two years ago and we will continue to update you on its progress.

Communication Committee (ComCom): The energetic ComCom has been working hard and has made major and impressive progress toward SPR's new website. The EC approved the committee's recommendation to hire a website content writer for the new website. The details of this role were discussed and the ComCom will be overseeing the work of the content writer. Following a test phase of the newly designed website it will hopefully be launched before the conference. Please read the brief report by Kim de Jong, the ComCom chair. We will learn more about these important developments at the General Membership Meeting at the conference.

Webinars: The terrific program of electronic conferences aimed for early scholars (students and post-docs), called Webinars, continues to grow and have strong attendance. You will find the report by the new chair of the Webinars committee, Samuel Nordberg, including information about forthcoming Distinguished Researcher series webinars featuring: Steven Hollon, David Orlinsky and Louis Castonguay.

International SPR student award for Students from Developing Countries

I am happy to report that the international student travel award program was launched to support the travel of students from developing countries to the 2014 conference in Copenhagen. This initiative is independent of the chapter student travel awards, aimed at empowering students who cannot participate in the annual international conference without extra support. The committee chaired by Andres Roussos completed the process and four recipients will receive this travel award that will be presented in the meeting. We are grateful to Andres and the other committee members: Ulrike Dinger, Jeremy Halstead, John Ogrodniczuk and Nelson Valdes for their time and effort in successfully implementing this new initiative.

The Lester Luborsky Student Poster Award – Open for applicants until May 14, 2014

The fifth Lester Luborsky Student Poster Award competition will be held at the 2014 SPR conference in Copenhagen, Denmark. Three student poster prizes will be awarded - first place $500.00, second place $300.00 and third place $200.00. An international jury of SPR members will select the most inventive and scientifically convincing studies that also demonstrate excellence in poster design. To be eligible for participation the student must be: 1) The first author of the presentation. 2) Available to present during the poster session. 3) Prepared to demonstrate their student status with appropriate documentation if asked to do so by the Student Poster Award committee chair. The poster must be sent (a pdf file) to the award committee chairman, Laurie Heatherington Laurie.Heatherington@williams.edu, the latest by MAY 14, 2014.

Distinguished Research Career Award and Early Career Achievement Award: I am pleased to inform you that the awards committee consisting of past presidents George Silberschatz (Chair), Lynne Angus and Guillermo de la Parra has received many outstanding nominees for both the Distinguished Research Career and the Early Career awards. The winners of the awards will be announced at the opening ceremony in Copenhagen.

GVP Nominating Committee: The March newsletter is also the time of year when we solicit nominations for SPR General Vice-President. As many of you know, the GVP joins the SPR Executive for a four year period (GVP, President-elect, President, and Past-president) and serves in the role of the Program chair of the SPR conference as President-elect in the second year. Being program chair is no doubt highly demanding and time consuming, but all of us who have had this experience would probably agree that it is also enormously rewarding. The deadline for nominations is May 1, 2014 and further details can be found at the end of the newsletter.

2017 International Conference: We are happy to inform you that Toronto, Canada, has been selected to host the 2017 SPR International Conference. More on this you will find out during the General Membership Meeting during the Copenhagen conference. A call for hosting the following future conference in 2018 appears at the end of the Newsletter.

Early Bird Registration ends April 20th, 2014: As in previous years, we will be providing Early Bird registration fees to delegates who register early for the meeting as this helps us plan better for the conference. This is especially crucial for the Copenhagen meeting with a record number of delegates. In fact, we may be able to register only a small number of members at the last minute in Copenhagen. So please take this into consideration to ensure your attendance.

Looking forward to seeing you in Copenhagen, Denmark

News from the Communications Committee

Kim de Jong

The SPR Communications Committee is working hard on the redesign of the SPR website.

The redesign takes place in a couple of steps:

The current website was transferred to a new server, after the takeover of our web provider Affiniscape by Yourmembership.com. This happened in December, and you received a new login at the time. The website did not change significantly in design or content in this phase.

On a test website, the committee has worked on the new menu structure and new content. This was the bulk of the work and we are pleased that this is almost finished by now.

Yourmembership.com will create a new design for the website. We are currently waiting on our turn and expect that this will take place in May.

The new design and content will be integrated into a new website. After a test phase, the newly designed website will go live. We hope to achieve this before the conference, so that we can launch it.

After the launch, the committee will send temporary newsletters, to inform you of the changes on the website and help you getting around on the website.

Although the whole process is taking a bit longer than we had hoped, we are very excited about the steps we have taken so far and are confident that the new website will be able to improve communication between members. Additionally, we hope that it may serve as a medium to attract new members to SPR.

ComCom committee members: Kim de Jong (chair), Stephanie Bauer, Jo-anne Carlyle, Alvaro Carrasco, Mariane Krause, Rick Mills, Alberta Pos

News from the Webinars Committee

Sam Nordberg

The SPR webinars committee is happy to report that the organization's online presence continues to grow. The SPR facebook page recently passed 250 members, and webinar audiences are growing. During the routine course of an SPR webinar, presenters offer a synthesis of some of their major work. These come in two main formats—the summation of a program of research, or a description of an important methodology. Presenters respond to questions from participants in four continents, often engaging in brief dialogue rich with different accents and opinions. Some presenters arrange for follow-up conversations with interested parties, and all webinars are recorded and archived for SPR membership access in perpetuity.

Since September of last year, we have held three new senior scholar webinars, and one early career webinar. In September, Sarah Knox presented her webinar on “Data collection and analysis in CQR: Explanation and illustration.” Consistent with the main goal of SPR webinars, Dr. Knox focused on introducing younger members to the practicalities of qualitative research. Sam Nordberg gave the third SPR early career webinar in October, presenting a program of research devoted to “Unpacking heterogeneity in psychotherapy change.” Dr. Nordberg described the use of structural equation modeling to separate different kinds of patients from one another longitudinally and cross-sectionally. Marvin Goldfried gave the first-ever jointly sponsored webinar in November. The Society for the Exploration of Psychotherapy Integration (SEPI) joined with SPR in hosting the best-attended webinar to date. Dr. Goldfried presented on “Psychotherapy integration: Past, present and future” to an audience of over 150 participants. Lastly, in January, Dr. Larry Beutler offered a rousing discussion entitled “Re-defining psychotherapy: Should we?” His presentation covered a huge breadth of research into the effect of psychotherapy, and encouraged long-form debate with participants in the most active use of the webinar medium to date. Upcoming webinars will feature senior scholars such as Drs. Steven Hollon, David Orlinsky and Louis Castonguay.

The webinars committee has undergone its first transition of leadership this year. After serving as webinars chair for four years, Kim de Jong has stepped down. Another founding member of the webinars initiative, Sam Nordberg, has taken up chairmanship. In addition, the committee has grown to help handle increased scheduling and facilitating duties. Allison Lockard of Penn State University, Jack Keefe of the University of Pennsylvania, and David Schneider of Bern University have joined Sam and Julian Rubel of Trier University.

The committee is actively recruiting for early career webinar presenters. While presenting to SPR can be intimidating, the rewards can be significant. Several collaborations with previously-unknown colleagues have sprung from early-career webinars, which allow scholars to reach a broad audience and share their programs of research. Several projects and publications have already emerged from past webinars, and the committee encourages anyone interested in presenting to contact Sam Nordberg at samnordberg@gmail.com. We additionally encourage mentors and advisors to discuss early career webinars with their students as an excellent means for developing communication and presentation skills.

Upcoming Webinars:

25 Mar 2014 12pm EST

Distinguished Researcher series: Steven D. Hollon (Vanderbilt University) - Is Cognitive Behavior Therapy the Optimal First-line Treatment for Depression?

05 May 2014 12pm EST

Distinguished Researcher series: Dr. David Orlinsky (University of Chicago) – Training and development of psychologists.

October 2014 time TBD

Distinguished Researcher series: Dr. Louis Castonguay (Penn State University) – Topic to be announced.

Executive Officer's Report

Tracy Eells

I am pleased to report that the Society continues to flourish. We ended 2013 with assets of $516,674 usd and no debt. The 2013 Brisbane conference generated revenues of $135,032 and expenses of $105,154, resulting in net income from the conference of $29,878. SPR's central office operating income in 2013 was $108,093. Dues accounted for $102,425 of this and we received $5668 in royalties. Central office operating expenses for the year were $86,309, resulting in a net positive of $21,925. The $21,925 resulted because we paid annual journal expenses early, and thus they appeared in the 2012 financial statements. The major central office expense items were dues owed to chapters, central office labor, and Executive Council meetings.

As noted by Hadas in her president's message, SPR has begun a number of exciting initiatives, including the Small Research Grants program, the Psychotherapy Data Bank Project, and international student travel awards. We also fund the Lester Luborsky Student Poster Award, awarding prizes of $500, $300, and $200 to students with the best posters at the annual conference. These projects and increased support for students attending international conferences have been made possible by the Society's strong financial standing and the vision of the Executive Council.

When SPR's Executive Council met in January, it approved an operating budget for calendar year 2014. We expect dues income of $105,000, anticipating an increase in members with the conference's location in Europe this year. We anticipate royalty payments of $5,500 for total income of $110,500. We anticipate total operating expenses of $109,740 and additional other expenses of $46,404, for a budgeted net loss of $45,494. Major anticipated expenses include funding the projects noted above and the website renovation. These will be paid out of SPR's reserves.

Membership is stable. As of January 2014, we had 1385 members, representing an increase due in part to the popularity of regional conferences in Oxford and Memphis.

In summary, SPR is in good shape financially and has a firm foundation of regular and retired members as well as strong student representation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions about the operation of our Society (eells@louisville.edu).

Nomination for SPR General Vice President

Nominations for the position of General Vice-President are now officially open. Please send your proposals to the Chair or one of the committee members no later than May 1, 2014.

The GVP Nominating Committee includes: Robert Elliott, Chair (United Kingdom) fac0029@gmail.com; Guillermo de la Parra (Latin America) guillermo.delaparra@gmail.com; Lynne Knobloch-Fedders (North America) l-knobloch@northwestern.edu; Stig Poulsen (Europe) Stig.Poulsen@psy.ku.dk

Mariane Krause, Thomas Schroder and Bernhard Strauss are rotating off the committee this year and we thank you all for your contributions to SPR. We welcome Robert Elliott, Guillermo de la Parra and Stig Poulsen who will give their time and effort to find the best leaders for our organization.

2018 SPR Annual Meeting

The SPR Executive Committee is now inviting nominations for sites to host the SPR International Meeting in June 2018. If you are willing to serve as a local host and chair a committee to oversee local arrangements for SPR 2018, please prepare a brief conference proposal for review by the EC during its meeting prior to the Copenhagen conference. The intention is to finalize the selection of a 2018 Conference site at the EC meeting in early January 2015. Please send your site nomination and local host proposal to Tracy Eells, Executive Officer SPR : eells@louisville.edu. Nominations should be submitted by June 23, 2014.

Mark Your Calendar!!

- 2014 International Meeting: Copenhagen—June 25-June 28, 2014
- 2015 International Meeting: Philadelphia, Penn, USA—June 24-27, 2015

Welcome to Copenhagen!

Here in Copenhagen, spring is on its way with winter aconites, snowdrops and crocuses in bloom and temperatures approaching 10° Celsius. Preparations for this year's international meeting have gone into the final stage after a lively visit from the EC where we managed to get a lot of details right, while still finding time to visit both a number of Copenhagen tourist attractions and a range of local restaurants. The program for the conference looks extremely exciting and with the opening of the online registration module, we expect a massive number of registered participants over the coming weeks. For those of you that would like to book a hotel room in combination with the registration, we have added a link that allows you to do the booking directly from the conference web page. The procedure should be relatively straightforward. If, however, you run into trouble, please note that the service is operated by DIS Congress Service and all questions and requests should be directed to participants@discongress.com. Questions that DIS are not able to answer and other queries you may have about the local conditions in Copenhagen can be emailed to spr2014@psy.ku.dk

A new issue of the special conference newsletter will be out almost simultaneously with the newsletter you are reading now and accessible on the conference web page. There, you will find a write-up on the neighborhood of Christianshavn, famous for its canals as well as the freetown Christiania and the Noma restaurant. We have also included a mini essay on Danish design plus a shopping guide for those of you that might want to spend a little extra time (and money) in the city. Look out for future issues of the newsletter, which will be available over the coming months.

We look forward to seeing you all at a great conference with an amazing program (obviously), a beautiful city (well, we kind of like it at least), perfect weather (definitely), and (hopefully) seamless coordination. Bring your family – there are lots to do for them in Copenhagen as well. And if you are from an overseas country, do consider using Copenhagen as the starting point for a journey through Europe.

SEE YOU IN COPENHAGEN, JUNE 25 TO 28!

Greetings from your local hosts,

Stig Poulsen, Jan Nielsen, Susanne Lunn, Susanne Harder & Sarah Daniel
