New Member Announcement

Virginia Eye Institute is pleased to welcome

Landon C. Meekins, MD

Dr. Meekins is a neuro-ophthalmologist and surgical comprehensive ophthalmologist who is fellowship-trained in the subset of eye disorders associated with brain and nervous system pathology.

Dr. Meekins is a North Carolina native who received his medical degree from Duke University School of Medicine and went on to complete his one-year internal medicine internship at Duke University Medical Center. He completed his Ophthalmology residency and Neuro-ophthalmology fellowship at the Duke Eye Center. Following completion of his fellowship training, he joined the Duke Eye Center faculty for two years, participating in research projects and clinical trials, educating and training ophthalmology residents/fellows, and providing high quality patient care.

Dr. Meekins specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of a variety of optic nerve, cranial nerve, orbital and brain disorders. Dr. Meekins also provides general eye care, managing common eye conditions such as glaucoma, diabetes, macular degeneration, cataracts, and dry eye. In addition to performing procedures more specific to the subspecialty of neuro-ophthalmology including optic nerve sheath fenestration surgery and botulinum toxin injection for blepharospasm, Dr. Meekins performs cataract surgery and other general ocular procedures.

In his spare time, he enjoys spending time with his family, watching sports, cooking, and exercising.

Dr. Meekins will be seeing patients at VEI's Reynolds Crossing location.
