New Member Announcement

Please join us in welcoming C. Taylor Richardson, MD

Dr. C. Taylor Richardson, Jr. is delighted to return to the Richmond area. He grew up in Goochland and received undergraduate degrees in history and economics from the University of Virginia. He continued his studies at the University of Virginia and obtained his medical school degree. Dr. Richardson completed his internship and residency in Internal Medicine at the Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville before being selected for a three-year fellowship in Gastroenterology and Hepatology at the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

At Richmond Gastroenterology Associates, Dr. Richardson treats a wide variety of digestive diseases including heartburn/reflux, Barrett's esophagus, swallowing disorders, peptic ulcer disease, celiac disease, inflammatory bowel disease (Ulcerative Colitis and Crohn's), irritable bowel syndrome, diarrhea, constipation, liver disease, and colon cancer screening. He is skilled in upper endoscopy, esophageal dilation, colonoscopy, colon polyp removal and video capsule endoscopy.

He is a member of the American College of Gastroenterology, the American Gastroenterology Association, and the American Society for Gastrointestinal Endoscopy.

He is accepting new patients and referrals at Richmond Gastroenterology Associates.

Please join us in welcoming Dr. C. Taylor Richardson to the Richmond Academy of Medicine
