

InSite: RFMA's Online Community

InSite is our exclusive online community and home for anything, everything, and everyone related to RFMA. This insider social network is a place to share real experience and best practices, as well as, timely information on new products and services to help maintain your facilities. It is a place to share solutions, start discussions, and talk to other professionals and industry peers. This is a forum for our members and is available online-all the time! Your profile is automatically created for you when you join RFMA and you can start networking immediately!

Why use InSite?

Our association was created to bring restaurant facility professionals together to network and share knowledge, alongside those who provide products and services for restaurants. We hope all our members will use InSite, our online community, to reach out and build relationships within the restaurant facility management industry to improve overall job effectiveness and value.
