INJURY AND VIOLENCE PREVENTION NETWORK

WHO IS IVPN

The Injury and Violence Prevention Network meets monthly to share information, coordinate efforts, and collaborate on strategies that promote policies aimed at advancing the field of injury and violence prevention. This includes efforts to prevent opioid overdoses; road traffic injuries; poisoning; falls; fire and burn injuries; drowning; suicide; adverse childhood experiences (ACEs); and interpersonal violence, such as homicide and sexual assault.

The Network meets in-person in the spring and fall in Washington, DC with senior officials from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) National Center for Injury Prevention and Control to share federal policy priorities and identify areas of common interest.

To help strengthen the voice of the injury and violence prevention community in Congress, the Network organizes an annual Hill day for its members. The event is designed to allow advocates to educate federal policymakers on the impact injury and violence prevention programs have in communities across the country.

GET INVOLVED

Membership in the Network is open to organizations working to promote and advance public health through injury and violence prevention efforts. No financial commitment is required to join.
