INTRODUCTION

This Procedural Manual has been compiled to clarify the duties assigned to the South Dakota Library Association officers, the Executive Board, sections, committees and other representatives. It includes those activities that are directed specifically to the annual conference as well as those that are operational and on going. It does not purport to be all-inclusive, but it should nevertheless prove to be beneficial in charting the purposes, duties and directions of officers, committee and section chairs, and other representatives as they attempt to carry on the activities and progress of the South Dakota Library Association. In this sense it will serve as a "when-to", "what-to" and "how-to" manual and thus promote efficiency and cohesiveness within the organization.

Conceived and authorized by President Joseph R. Edelen, Jr. during his term of office in 1984-85, it has been modeled roughly on a similar manual, which serves as guidebook of the Mountain Plains Library Association. The procedures described and outlined are based on the Constitution, Bylaws and Code of the South Dakota Library Association (October, 1982 and amended September, 1983) and on the 1985 Bylaws. These documents were augmented with information supplied by present and past officers and other Association leaders who analyzed their positions and duties and generously supplied details that they felt would be most useful to officers and leaders in succeeding years. I was assigned the task of editing these various contributions and compiling them into a functional manual. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those contributors without whose assistance my task would have been most formidable if not impossible.

At the time I was writing the Procedural Manual Dora Ann Jones was chairing the Ad Hoc Committee that completely rewrote the Bylaws of the Association. Procedures established and briefly outlined in the Bylaws are developed in greater detail in this document. Designed to complement the Bylaws, this Procedural Manual, adopted by the Executive Board on June 21, 1985, becomes the official operating policy of the Association. It is to be issued to each officer, committee or section chair or other representative and should be read in its entirety to provide an overview of the Association's goals and specific areas of responsibility for meeting those goals. Each committee chair should distribute to committee members the appropriate parts of the Manual that concern the committee itself.

(June 2006)

GENERAL LEADERSHIP RESPONSIBILITIES

Acceptance of a position as an officer or committee chair of SDLA is not to be entered into lightly. As in any organization, acceptance of an office or appointment carries with it the obligation to exhibit responsibility and to make a worthwhile contribution to the organization involved. People so honored should fully expect to spend time in completing assigned tasks and in attending meetings with other committee or section members and/or with the Executive Board. There will be occasions when such meetings may be at inconvenient times or in areas requiring travel. However, in accepting the honor of leadership one concurrently accepts the responsibility such leadership entails with its demands on time and talent.

Additionally, acceptance of a position implies that the member's local library administration is willing to provide released time for professional responsibilities and for necessary secretarial assistance and that either the member or the member's library is willing to fund travel expenses in those cases that do not qualify for reimbursement by the Association.

Any officer, section, or committee chair delinquent in SDLA dues payment after a one month reminder from the Executive Secretary is subject to removal and replacement.

(June 2007)

REPORTING

At least one month before the annual conference, officers, committee and section chairs and other representatives are required to submit written annual reports to the President and to the Executive Secretary, who will distribute the reports to the membership prior to the conference. In addition to these officers, chairs and/or representatives may be requested to present written reports at Executive Board meetings. For uniformity these reports should be on 8 1/2" x 11 paper and clearly dated to indicate the period covered.

Common sense is desirable in selecting the content of a report. Too-long reports will not be read; too-short reports may omit important information. The following items are vital in providing an on-going history of the Association:

1. Procedural changes.
2. Problems that have arisen and their solutions (or lack of solutions).
3. Financial statements, including budget requests.
4. Programs initiated, accomplished, or recommended for the future.

The nature of a committee's report depends upon the nature of the committee. The Nominating Committee's report is the slate of officers; the Finance Committee's report is the recommended budget; the Professional Development Grants Committee report is its list of recipients. Committees that are production or program oriented, such as the Public Relations Committee, need to report on their production or programs.

Reports should be included as vital parts of the documents that are passed from committee and section chairs to their successors. The President shall also call upon these chairs to report orally at the annual conference general session. In addition a brief one month report may be published in the post-conference issue of Book Marks.

Reports Requested by Other Agencies and Individuals:

Survey forms and requests for SDLA information, statistics, opinions, etc., received from agencies and/or individuals by SDLA officers, committee chairs or individual members should be forwarded to the SDLA President, who will in turn route them to the appropriate officer, committee, or individual SDLA member best positioned to make a response. Copies of the reports so generated should be retained with the respondent's office and duplicate copies of responses should be forwarded to the President.

(July 2016)

(Aug 2007)

1. SDLA does not pay travel expenses to Executive Board members for attendance at the annual conference. Travel expenses may be paid for board meetings, other than the annual conference board meeting.
2. When the chair of a Committee, Section or Interest Group is directed in writing by the President to be present at an Executive Board meeting, travel expenses will be reimbursed if necessary.

In the early 1970s the News underwent two title changes to Catalyst and Book Marks, and in 1973 the South Dakota Library Bulletin ceased publication to be followed by a South Dakota State Library Newsletter. The Bylaws Committee ruled that the Board cannot do this, as only the membership can make this decision.
