

Please join us!

Founded in 1985, the Society for the Exploration of Psychotherapy Integration (SEPI) is an international, interdisciplinary organization that promotes the integration of diverse psychotherapies as well as the synthesis of practice and research. SEPI seeks to bring clinicians and researchers together to an unprecedented degree. We strive to help both learn from each other.

- SEPI promotes dialogue between psychotherapists of differing theoretical orientations. We advance our collective understanding of therapeutic change and meet the needs of the growing ranks of integrative/eclectic therapists.
- SEPI fosters collaboration between leading practitioners and researchers, enriching both and narrowing the practice-research gap.
- SEPI prides itself on its diversity, representing perspectives from many cultures, countries, racial/ethnic backgrounds, sexual orientations, and religions.
- SEPI is an international organization with members from all over the world.

Benefits of Joining SEPI

- Subscription to SEPI's peer-reviewed journal, Journal of Psychotherapy Integration, an APA-sponsored publication containing articles of particular interest to clinicians.
- Reduced fee at SEPI's annual conferences. The conferences feature preconference workshops, posters, papers, panel sessions, structured discussion groups, and mini-workshops—all within a manageable size— just big enough for stimulation and small enough for social interaction.
- Access to all website resources. The SEPI website provides an ever-evolving source of information for members, such as connecting members, sharing information on training opportunities, and offering publications on psychotherapy integration.
- Participation in an active listserv, which provides a forum to engage in meaningful discussions about psychotherapy integration.
- An on-line membership directory, which includes members' contact information, email addresses, clinical interests, and a separate geographical listing for ease of reference.
- Eligibility for the New Researcher Award and the Dissertation Award (which enables awardees to present their work at the annual conference) and for serving on the SEPI governance and its 10 committees.
