66th Annual SES Conference - Follow SES on Storify!

Enjoying the 2017 SES Annual Conference? Be sure to check out the SES Website after the conference for copies of presentation slides, to view pictures of the event or find information on next year's conference.

The SES is expecting a strong turn out this year and it's no too late for you to participate.

To join in the fun, post to and follow the #SESconf17 hashtag on twitter or visit Storify to see the latest posts and pictures.

Become an SES Member!

SES Membership is open to anyone interested in the principles, techniques, and effects of standards and standardization. If you use standards, work with standards, serve on standards development committees, or are an information specialist serving the standards field, you will benefit from SES membership.

Benefits of Membership include:

- Unique networking opportunities

- Continuing Education opportunities
- Discounts on registration for the SES annual conference and SES sponsored webinars
- Recognition by peers of your valuable contributions to the standards community

To review all membership options and benefits associated, or to join this unique organization devoted to standards development and use, contact SES at 1 603 926 0750 or by email at admin@ses-standards.org.

To apply for a new membership click here To renew your Membership click here, or you may download an Individual Membership Application or the Organization Membership Application, fill it in, and mail or fax it with your personal check, company check, postal money order, or bankcard information. For information on the Student or Retired memberships, contact the SES Executive Director at admin@ses-standards.org.

World Standards Week 2017 will be held October 16-20

Join colleagues and friends for a week of standards related meetings, networking and celebrating. The U.S. Celebration of World Standards Day is an event you won't want to miss. The dinner recognizes the critical role of various stakeholders across the standards community, including business leaders, industry, academia, and government. It will be held at the Mandarin Oriental in Washington, DC, on October 19, 2017. For a full listing of events, see: https://www.ansi.org/meetings_events/wsw17/wsw?menuid=8

The World Standards Day Paper Competition

Do you have 2,500 and 4,500 words floating around in your head under the subject of "smart health"? If so, submit a paper for the SES 2017 World Standards Day Paper Competition. The Competition is open to any individual in the private sector, government, or academia. The purpose of the World Standards Day Paper Competition is to focus on standards and their use. Authors may choose to address the 2017 World Standards Day theme, "smart health", however there is no obligation to do so. All submissions must be received with an official entry form by midnight on August 11, 2017. For more information visit: <https://ses-standards.site-ym.com/?page=WSD2017>

Now Available!! SES 3: 2016, Recommended Practice for Joint Standards Development

This recommended practice provides guidance to Standards Development Organizations for the development of Joint Standards by outlining the key components of a Joint Standards Agreement and a recommended process for managing the development of Joint Standards.

New 2017 SES Student Scholarship Program!

The Society for Standards Professionals has established a Scholarship Program to support students involved in the use of standards in their academic curriculum. We know that each new generation of graduating students holds the potential for helping us achieve our mission of increasing awareness and use of standards.

Individual or Organization members may support the SES Scholarship Program. Underwriters Laboratories (www.ul.com) is the first organization to co-sponsor the newly established program. For more information about the scholarship or inquiries on scholarship funding opportunities, please contact admin@ses-standards.org.
