

The Society for Standards Professionals

Now Available!! SES 3: 2016, Recommended Practice for Joint Standards Development

This recommended practice provides guidance to Standards Development Organizations for the development of Joint Standards by outlining the key components of a Joint Standards Agreement and a recommended process for managing the development of Joint Standards. Click here for more information on SES 3 and to purchase your copy!

Education Papers Available

For several years now, Standards Engineering has featured articles on work by academic authors who have received awards under the Standards Services Curricula Development Cooperative Agreement Program to Advance Standards Education. In order to publicize this valuable work to the standards and academic communities, and to encourage further work in the area of standards education, the SES Board of Directors has agreed to publish these papers on the SES website and make them available to all interested parties.

The papers, including an overview from NIST staff, are available at www.ses-standards.org. Just select the "Education" link on the left hand side, and the fifth bullet provides links to the papers and an introduction to the program.

Volunteers Needed

The SES Marketing Committee is looking for new members! Of need are members to act as liaisons with the SES Certification and Standards committees and a member interested in assisting with graphic design. For additional information, please contact the marketing committee at marketing@ses.org

New 2017 SES Student Scholarship Program!

The Society for Standards Professionals has established a Scholarship Program to support students involved in the use of standards in their academic curriculum. We know that each new generation of graduating students holds the potential of helping us achieve our mission of increasing awareness and use of standards.

Individual or Organization members may support the SES Scholarship Program. Underwriters Laboratories (www.ul.com) is the first organization to co-sponsor the newly established program. For more information about the scholarship or inquiries on scholarship funding opportunities, please contact admin@ses-standards.org.

Claudia Bach – New IFAN Representative

Claudia Bach is President of Document Center Inc., a standards distribution service. Since 1985 the company has grown from an idea in a garage into an internationally respected standards service. Ms. Bach was instrumental in bringing the potential of the Internet to the attention of the standards-developing community through her participation in ANSI's Standards and Data Services Committee. She was honored with the status of Fellow of SES – The Society for Standards Professionals – in 2006. Claudia has been an SES member for 25 years. Ms. Bach is an outspoken advocate for standards, standards developers, copyright and user requirements. She has written and spoken on both standards and internet issues for many years. You can follow Ms. Bach via her daily blogs at StandardsForum.com.
