

Journal of Management Call for Review Issue Proposals

The editorial team of the Journal of Management would like to invite authors to submit proposals for the 2022 Review Issue.

Articles for the Review Issue are high-impact scholarly surveys of important research literatures. They summarize recent research, provide integrations of management literatures, and highlight important directions for future inquiries. The Review Issue is open to all areas of management, including such disciplines as strategy, entrepreneurship, human resource management, organizational behavior, organizational theory, and research methods.

Please see the Editorial Commentary "Successfully Proposing and Composing Review Papers" (Parmigiani & King, 2019) for guidance:

<https://journals.sagepub.com/doi/full/10.1177/0149206319874875>

Proposals should be submitted between June 1, 2020 and July 1, 2020 (midnight EST) via the Journal of Management's online submission portal at: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/jom> (please be sure to select Review Issue as the submission type).

Please note that proposals may NOT be submitted until June 1, 2020.

Proposals should be double-spaced and include no more than seven pages of text. References, tables, and appendices do not count against this page limit. All proposals will be subject to editorial review. Please do not send complete papers. If you have a draft of your paper, please note that in the proposal. Submissions will be evaluated with respect to the following criteria and successful proposals tend to speak to these criteria:

- Relevance. The proposed manuscript should thoroughly review a significant and important research area within the organizational sciences.
- Viability. The proposal should represent an achievable project within the tight time constraints required. More detail on the timeline is provided below.
- Scope of Interest. Papers of broad interest to scholars in a variety of specialty areas are greatly preferred.
- Organization and Coherence. The proposal should follow a logical structure, read clearly, and thoroughly represent the available research.
- Insight for Future Work. The proposal should convey important implications for future management scholars.
- Timeliness/Contribution. Reviews should be on topics for which no recent reviews exist and the proposal should emphasize how the review will contribute to knowledge in that area

Due to editorial constraints, it is vital for authors to strictly adhere to the following timeline. We will not be able to consider late submissions. If you have questions, please contact us at JOM@tcu.edu.

Relevant dates* are as follows:

June 1- July 1, 2020: Proposals due to the Journal of Management online at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/jom> (please be sure to select Review Issue as the submission type) All proposals must be received by midnight EST.

September 15, 2020: Final decisions on proposals and initial feedback provided to authors invited to submit full papers.

February 15, 2021: Full draft of paper due to the Journal of Management.

April 15, 2021: Feedback to authors on full paper.

June 15, 2021: Final paper submitted to the Journal of Management.

Please note that these are basic guidelines, each paper may require different timing and a different number of revisions to make the June 15, 2021 deadline.*